We would like to thank our friends and our families for their support and encouragement during the past year. We would also like to acknowledge the many friends and colleagues who talked to us about our project. Without the inspiration and encouragement of Steve Molinsky, we may never have finished it. To the Teacher

Reading Power is intended for students of English as a Second Language who have studied English for an average of 100 hours and have acquired a vocabulary of about 600 words.

In appearance and in approach, this book is quite different from other reading skills books. Most books are used in a linear fashion from beginning to end. However, in this book the four parts must be used concurrently, since each part focuses on a different aspect of reading instruction. This means that each class should include several different kinds of activities and exercises from the different parts of the book. Using all the parts together in this way is crucial to a successful reading program.

PART I. READING FOR PLEASURE

Recent research in both first and second language reading confirms that the key to reading improvement is extensive practice, as common sense suggests. Reading for Pleasure is therefore an essential part of this book. Students must begin to develop the habit of extensive reading. This can only happen if they are given the opportunity to select their own materials. Part I includes lists of appropriate fiction and nonfiction books available at bookstores and libraries. Though not intended for ESL readers, they are written at the fifth-grade level or below and are accessible to beginning-level students. Graded readers, some especially for ESL/EFL students, are listed in the Teacher’s Supplement at the back of the book. Also in the Supplement are guidelines for integrating Reading for Pleasure into the reading class and setting up a classroom library.

PART II. READING COMPREHENSION SKILLS

Reading comprehension involves specific thinking processes. The units in Part II are designed to provide focused instruction in the reading skills based on these processes. Greater awareness of the relation between cognitive process and reading skills will help students apply the skills when they are reading. Each unit is organized as a series of exercises, simple at first and then gradually more complex. Every class hour should include some exercises from Part II, preferably with students working in pairs.

PART III. READING FASTER

Lack of comprehension is often a result of reading too slowly. The reason is simple: the short-term memory can only retain information for a few seconds. Students who read very slowly, word by word, often forget the beginning of a sentence by the time they reach the end. Thus, instruction in reading faster will improve comprehension.
PART IV. THINKING SKILLS

These exercises are intended to be used by the students at their own pace. As they work through this section of the book, students will gain proficiency in following the logical sequence of ideas in English. The exercises will also improve their ability to guess the meaning of unfamiliar words from the context and to recognize synonyms, antonyms and referents.

Complete directions for using this book are found in the Teacher's Supplement on page 279.
Introduction

HOW TO BECOME A BETTER READER

Why is reading important when you are learning a new language? Here are some of the reasons:

- Reading helps you learn to think in the new language.
- Reading helps you build a better vocabulary.
- Reading makes you more comfortable with written English. You can write better English if you feel comfortable with the language.
- Reading may be the only way for you to use English if you live in a non-English-speaking country.
- Reading can help if you plan to study in an English-speaking country.

This book will help you learn to read better in English. You will work on four things in this book.

1. Reading For Pleasure

Read as much as you can. Read books, magazines, newspapers, stories. Read anything you like. The more you read, the better you will read.

Choose a book from the list in Part I. Or find another book that is interesting to you. Your teacher can help you find one at the bookstore or the library.

Read your book every day. Time your reading. Keep a record of your reading rate on the chart on page 275.

Be sure to talk about your book with your teacher, your classmates, and your friends.

2. Working On Your Reading Skills

When you read, you use many different skills. You need to work on them one at a time. Here are six important skills you will work on:

- Previewing. Before you start reading, find out something about what you will read. Then you can start thinking about the subject. You will be able to read faster and with more understanding.
- Asking questions as you read. This keeps your mind on what you read. Asking questions helps you pay attention. It also helps you to remember what you read.
- Guessing what new words mean. It takes too much time to look up every new word. And if you stop, you may forget what you are reading. Use the whole sentence or paragraph to guess words.
• Finding the topic and the main idea. The topic and the main idea let you know what is important. To find the topic and the main idea, ask two questions:
  - What is this about?
  - What does the writer want to say about this?

• Understanding patterns in English. A pattern is a way of putting ideas together. If you find the pattern, you can understand more. You will also remember more.

• Using signal words. Some words are like signposts on a highway. They tell you what direction the writer is going. And they help you to follow the writer's ideas. Signal words also help you guess what you will read about.

3. Learning To Read Faster

Reading faster is very important because of the way your brain works. When you read slowly, your brain does not get enough information. You understand better when you read faster.

4. Learning To Think In English

You also need to work on understanding English sentences. Learn how to get the meaning of sentences. Find out how ideas follow each other in English.

HOW TO READ FASTER

Why read faster?

Reading faster helps you to understand more. This may be surprising. But, in fact, your brain works better when you read faster. Try reading this:

| Many students are surprised when the teacher tells them to read faster. But they soon find out that they understand more that way. |

If you read slowly, you read one word at a time. You must remember many separate words. Soon you can get tired or bored.

But if you read faster, you can read groups of words together. Then you can think about ideas and not just single words. That is why you understand better and remember more.

Read the three short passages in this chapter. Time yourself for each one. After each passage, there are comprehension questions. You will have two chances to answer them. The first time, do not look back at the passage. See how much you can remember. Then answer the questions again. This time you may look back if you need to.

Your teacher will tell you when to start the first passage.
Read Passage A.

HOW TO THINK IN ENGLISH

If you want to read English well, you must think in English. These exercises will help you. In each exercise, the last sentence is not finished. Below the exercise, there are four endings. Circle the best ending. As you work:

1. guess the meanings of new words.
2. try to understand the way ideas work together in English.

Here is an example:

In the morning the language lab was full of people. Many students were waiting. Joe could not find a seat. He decided to come back later when the lab was a. closed.

b. busy.
c. more crowded.
d. less crowded.

Why did Joe decide to come back later? Because the lab was full. What is another word for “full”? Crowded. Joe wants a seat. So he must come back when the lab is not full. What is another way to say “not full”? Less crowded. The correct answer is “d. less crowded.”

Here are six more examples for practice. The underlined words may help you find the best ending.

1. Fruit is sweet, but candy is even
   a. nicer.
b. worse.
c. sweeter.
d. less sweet.

2. Vitamins are very important for the health of young children. If children don’t get enough vitamins in their food, they will
   a. get sick.
b. be happy.
c. get well.
d. stay home.

3. Some people are vegetarians. They do not eat any kind of meat. One special kind of vegetarian will not even eat
   a. vegetables.
b. carrots.
c. fruits.
d. eggs.

4. There are many kinds of coffee around the world. The Italians like their coffee strong and dark. Americans do not like very strong coffee. They prefer it
   a. stronger.
b. weaker.
c. for breakfast.
d. black.
5. You can make tea from many kinds of plants and fruits. Some people drink tea from roses and other flowers. People also make tea from
   a. medicine.
   b. coffee.
   c. milk.
   d. apples.

6. Chocolate is popular around the world. In some countries, people use it in main dishes such as chicken. In other countries, it is used in desserts such as ice cream, pudding, or
   a. breakfast.
   b. soup.
   c. salad.
   d. cake.

Check your answers in the Answer Key on page 259. If you made mistakes, look at the examples again. Try to find out why you did not understand.

In Part IV, (page 241), there are more exercises for Thinking Skills. Do one page of the exercises in every reading class.
Reading for pleasure is not the same as studying. You do not have to remember everything. There are no tests on books you read for pleasure. It is more interesting because you can choose your own book.

Reading for pleasure is very important for learning English. I will help you to

1. read faster in English.
2. find examples of good writing in English.
3. learn new words.
4. learn how English speakers use English.
5. learn about the culture of English speakers.

The first step is to find a good book. Look for a book that is interesting to you. Find one that seems easy.

Read some stories and novels. Read some books with facts and information. If you read both kinds of books you will learn English faster and better.

Read your book every day. Write down how many pages you read on the Progress Chart (page 271). Try to read your book very quickly.

After you finish your book, your teacher will talk to you about it. This is another way to learn more English. If you liked your book, tell a friend about it, too.
HOW TO FIND A GOOD BOOK

Go to the library. Find the Young Adults department. Many books for Young Adults are easy to read. They are in very easy English.

OR

Go to a large bookstore. Ask the clerk to help you find the books for Young Adults.

HOW TO CHOOSE A BOOK

1. Read the front and the back cover of the book. Do you think it is interesting?
2. How many pages are there in the book? It is better to begin with a short book.
4. If you think you like a book, read one or two pages. Find out if you can understand it. You should read a book that is not too difficult for you.
5. The most important thing is this: The book should be interesting to you.

At the end of this chapter, there is a list of books. The books are easy to read. But they are not just for students of English as a second language. You can find these books at many libraries and bookstores.
HOW TO FIND YOUR READING RATE

Read this page from Murder In the Language Lab. You will learn how to find your reading rate.

Before you start, write the time: _____ min. _____ sec.

1 Against one wall there was a large machine. The sides
2 of the machine were made of black metal. The bottom half 3 of it looked like a large typewriter. The top part of the 4 machine was like a television set.
5 The man walked over to the tree. He looked up at the 6 hole in the roof.
7 The man called out, "Sally! Come down, Sally!"
8 After a short time, a face appeared in the opening. The 9 face had small, bright eyes. The mouth was very wide, and 10 the nose was flat. There were very big ears. The face was 11 covered with short brown hair. It was the face of a 12 chimpanzee.
13 The animal's lips opened, showing yellow teeth. It looked 14 like a smile. The chimpanzee made a happy sound.
15 "Come down here, Sally," the man said again.
16 Sally climbed down the tree very quickly. With her long 17 arms, it was easy for her to climb up or down very fast.
18 Sally looked at the man and smiled again.
19 "Do you want a banana, Sally?" the man asked.
20 Sally made another happy sound. She ran across the 21 room to the machine. She stood in front of the machine.
22 It looked like she was thinking very hard. She was study-
23 ing the part that was like a typewriter. There were many 24 more keys than are usually found on a typewriter. Also,
25 instead of letters there were little pictures or symbols on 26 the keys. There were circles and squares in different colors, 27 and many other symbols as well.
28 Sally looked at the keys with their symbols. She put out
29 her finger and pressed several keys. When she pressed 30 a key, that symbol appeared on the television part of the 31 machine. At the same time, words in English appeared 32 above the symbols. Sally finished pressing the keys. She 33 looked at the symbols on the television. The words above 34 the symbols said,

Write the time you finished reading: _____ min. _____ sec.

Turn the page and read the directions carefully.
To find your reading rate:

1. Count the number of words in three lines. There are _30_ words in three lines on this page.

2. Divide the number of words by three to find the average.
   \[
   \frac{30}{3} = 10 \text{ words on one line.}

3. Count the lines on the page. On this page, there are _34_ lines.

4. (Number of lines) \times (words on one line) = words on a page.
   34 \times 10 = 340

YOU KNOW THAT THERE ARE ABOUT _340_ WORDS ON EACH PAGE OF THIS BOOK. NOW YOU CAN FIND OUT HOW MANY WORDS YOU READ IN ONE MINUTE.

5. How many minutes did you take to read the page? _____ minutes

6. \[
   \frac{340 \text{ words on a page}}{_____ \text{ minutes}} = _____ \text{ Words Per Minute}

   For example, if you read the page in 5 minutes,
   \[
   \frac{340 \text{ words on a page}}{5 \text{ minutes}} = 68 \text{ Words Per Minute}

7. You can use your own book to learn to read faster. Just remember to time yourself when you read.
   On the next page, you will learn to find your reading rate in your own book.
FIND YOUR READING RATE IN YOUR OWN BOOK

UNIT 1

Previewing and Predicting

PREVIEWING

Before you start on a trip, you usually look at a map. It helps you plan your way. Then you know what to expect as you travel. This is a good idea in reading, too. Look before you read. Then it is much easier to understand.

That is what you do when you PREVIEW.

Read this passage.

The first time you try it, ask someone to help you. You may fall if no one holds you up. It is a good idea to start on the sidewalk. The street may be dangerous. After you start, do not stop. Try to go faster. That will help you to stay up. Remember, even little children can do this. And once you learn how, you will never forget!

What is this passage about? __________________________

If you cannot tell, look at the picture on the next page.
Pictures help you understand. Before you read, always look at the pictures!

How to preview a short passage:
1. Read the title.
2. Look at the pictures (if there are any).
3. Read the first few sentences in the first paragraph.
4. Read the first line of the other paragraphs.
5. Read the last sentence of the last paragraph.
6. Watch for names, dates, and numbers.

Read the passage on the next page. It will help you learn how to preview.

Passage B  LANGUAGE LEARNING IN THE UNITED STATES

Most people in the United States speak only one language: English. They do not learn to speak a second language. High schools teach languages. But very few students learn to speak well. Why don't Americans speak other languages?

First, most Americans never travel to other countries. The United States is a very large country. Americans can travel a long distance and not leave the United States. They do not need to learn a second language.

Second, one of the countries next to the United States is Canada. Most people in Canada speak English. Some Americans live near Canada. They travel there often. But they do not have to learn a new language.

Passage C

BODIES ON ICE

In very cold parts of the world, scientists study the past. They find animals frozen in the ice. The animals look alive, but they are not. They were frozen many years ago.

Russian scientists found a large animal called a mastodon in the ice. It looked like an elephant. But it was larger, and it had lots of hair. In fact, the elephant is the mastodon’s younger cousin.

In 1846, American scientists were working near the North Pole. They found the body of a man frozen in the ice. This man went to the North Pole in 1846. He died, and his friends buried him in the ice. Today, his body looks the same. It did not change at all in the ice.

These facts interest doctors. They have some patients who are very sick. No one can help these patients. But some day there may be a new medicine for them. These doctors want to save people for the future. Maybe patients can be frozen until there is medicine to help them.

YONKERS, Nov. 12 — A four-alarm-fire damaged 14 stores today in the Cross County Shopping Center, the largest shopping center in Westchester County.

Fire investigators said the blaze apparently started in a pile of cardboard cartons at the rear of a shoe store and spread through a utilities duct above the 13 other stores. The fire started at 4:40 P.M. and was declared under control at 6:14 P.M. The center is on the Cross County Parkway at the Gov. Thomas E. Dewey Thruway.

Two firefighters were treated at the scene for minor cuts. Lieut. John Carey of the Yonkers Arson Squad said the cause of the fire was under investigation.

Philippines Sends Aid For Typhoon Damage

MANILA, Nov. 10 (AP) — The Philippine Air Force ferried medical teams and relief supplies today to provinces ravaged by Typhoon Agnes. The authorities said 515 people had died in the typhoon and more than 400 were missing.

An air force spokesman said more than 163 tons of food, medicine and clothing had been sent to the Visayan region, 300 miles south of Manila, and more aid was on the way.

The typhoon hit the region Monday. The spokesman said helicopters were rescuing people stranded by floods that remained chest-deep today in some areas of Panay Island, which appeared to have been hit the worst. Most of the fatalities and missing were on the island, where 445,000 people were homeless.

The Philippine National Red Cross reported that 90 percent of the 86,000 houses in Capiz Province on Panay were destroyed. Many of the dead were children who drowned as 30-foot waves smashed into coastal villages.

ASTRONAUTS SNARE ERRANT SATELLITE FOR THE FIRST TIME
AIM TO RETRIEVE 2D CRAFT

Major Obstacle Is Overcome by Wrestling 1,200-Pound Palapa Into Cargo Bay

By JOHN NOBLE WILFORD Special to The New York Times

HOUSTON, Nov. 12 — Two space-walking astronauts boldly snared a satellite in orbit today and, overcoming a surprising and potentially serious obstacle, wrestled the large satellite aboard the cargo bay of the space shuttle Discovery.

It was the first salvage operation in space.

The astronauts plan to retrieve a second communications satellite Wednesday to complete one of the most ambitious and difficult operations in the shuttle's history. They are seeking to demonstrate the shuttle's overall versatility as well as to recoup some of the money insurance companies lost when the two satellites were misfired into useless orbits last February.

Just about dawn over the eastern Pacific, or 8:32 A.M., Eastern standard time, Dr. Joseph P. Allen flew away from the shuttle 224 miles above the earth, circling at a rate of 17,000 miles an hour. He moved toward the stranded Palapa B-2, a 1,200-pound drum-shaped satellite that was rotating slowly about 35 feet away.

Shuttle snares disabled satellite
Crew wrestles orbiter aboard

Associated Press

SPACE CENTER, Houston — A free-flying astronaut snared an errant satellite in history's first space salvage yesterday, then he and a fellow spacewalker wrestled it aboard Discovery after a failed brace prevented use of the shuttle's robot arm.

"All right! We got it. We got it," called Dale Gardner after he and Joe Allen maneuvered the Palapa R2 satellite into the Discovery's cargo bay and secured it in place.

Allen had held the satellite for more than 90 minutes as Gardner attached a locking frame on the can-shaped craft. The work required Gardner to tighten nine bolts and Allen was forced to rotate the craft by hand at Gardner's directions.

"I can hold it wherever you want it, Dale," said Allen, grasping a rim at one end of the craft while Gardner worked at the other end to attach the locking frame.

The 5-foot-6 Allen was heard to gasp repeatedly as he strained against the inertia of the 21-by-7-foot cylindrical satellite, which weighs 1200 pounds on Earth. Allen held the satellite while he, the orbiter and Discovery made one complete orbit of Earth.

Several times Allen was cautioned by commander Rick Hauck and pilot David Walker, watching from inside Discovery's cockpit, to keep the satellite from banging into the side of the shuttle. And each time Allen was able to move the satellite slightly.

BALLOONING

The first kind of air transportation was not a plane. It was a balloon. People traveled by balloon one hundred years before there were planes or jet aircraft. Those early days of ballooning were exciting, but they were also dangerous. Sometimes the balloons fell suddenly. Sometimes they burned. However, the danger did not stop the balloonists.

The first real balloon flight was in France in 1783. Two Frenchmen, the Montgolfier brothers, made a balloon. They filled a very large paper bag with hot air. Hot air is lighter than cold air, so it goes up. The Montgolfiers’ hot air balloon went up 1,000 feet in the sky.

Later that same year, two other Frenchmen ascended in a basket under a balloon. They built a fire under the balloon to make the air hot. This made the balloon stay up in the air for a few hours. But their balloon was tied to the ground. So it could not go anywhere.

The first free balloon flight was in December, 1783. The balloon flew for 25 minutes over Paris. It traveled about five and a half miles.

Flying a balloon is not like flying a plane. The balloon has no engine, no power of its own. The wind controls the balloon. It goes where the wind blows. The pilot can only control the altitude of the balloon. He can raise and lower the balloon to find the right wind direction. That is how a good pilot controls where the balloon goes.

Very soon balloonists tried longer flights. A major event in the history of ballooning was the first long flight over water. In 1785, an American and a Frenchman flew over the English Channel. They left England on a cold, clear January day. After about an hour, their balloon began to descend towards the water. They threw out some equipment and food to make the balloon lighter. The balloon continued to fall, so they threw out almost everything in the basket — even some of their clothes. Finally, after about three hours, they landed in France. Cold but safe.

During the 19th century, ballooning became a popular sport. There were balloon races in Europe. Balloons were also used by scientists to study the air and by armies in war time. After the airplane was invented, people lost interest in balloons. Planes were much faster and easier to control. But some people today still like to go up in balloons. High up in the balloon basket, they find quiet. They have a wonderful view of the world below.

THE STORY OF PHOTOGRAPHY

In 1826, a Frenchman named Niepce needed pictures for his business. But he was not a good artist. So he invented a very simple camera. He put it in a window of his house and took a picture of his yard. That was the first photograph.

The next important date in the history of photography was 1837. That year, Daguerre, another Frenchman, took a picture of his studio. He used a new kind of camera and a different process. In his pictures, you could see everything very clearly, even the smallest details. This kind of photograph was called a daguerreotype.

Soon, other people began to use Daguerre’s process. Travelers brought back daguerreotypes from all around the world. People photographed famous buildings, cities, and mountains.

In about 1840, the process was improved. Then photographers could take pictures of people and moving things. The process was not simple. The photographers had to carry lots of film and processing equipment. But this did not stop the photographers, especially in the United States. After 1840, daguerreotype artists were popular in most cities.

Matthew Brady was one well-known American photographer. He took many portraits of famous people. The portraits were unusual because they were very life-like and full of personality. Brady was also the first person to take pictures of a war. His 1862 Civil War pictures showed dead soldiers and ruined cities. They made the war seem more real and more terrible.

In the 1880s, new inventions began to change photography. Photographers could buy film ready-made in rolls. So they did not have to make the film themselves. Also, they did not have to process the film immediately. They could bring it back to their studios and develop it later. They did not have to carry lots of equipment. And finally, the invention of the small hand camera made photography less expensive.

With the small camera, anyone could be a photographer. People began to use cameras just for fun. They took pictures of their families, friends and favorite places. They called these pictures “snapshots”.

Photographs became very popular in newspapers in the 1890s. Soon magazines and books also used documentary photographs. These pictures showed true events and people. They were much more real than drawings.

Photography also began to be a form of art by the end of the nineteenth century. Some photographs were not just copies of the real world. They showed ideas and feelings, like other art forms.

The first real bicycle was made in Scotland. It was built in 1839 by a man named Macmillan. His bicycle had two wheels like a modern bicycle. But it was much more difficult to ride. It was heavier because it was made of wood and iron. It did not have rubber tires like a modern bicycle. Instead, it had wooden wheels. This made it very uncomfortable on bumpy roads. But Macmillan was lucky about one thing: he could not get a flat tire!

Fog is really a low cloud near the ground. Fog and clouds are made of many little drops of water. These drops stay in the air because they are so small. You cannot see each drop. But fog can make it hard to see other things. It can be dangerous if you are driving, for example. Sometimes where there is a lot of fog you cannot see the road. Sailors also have trouble when there is fog. Boats may get lost and hit rocks or beaches in the fog.

They do not know exactly what it comes from. And they never know where and how it will hit the earth.

Topic _______________________________________________________

3

All clouds are made of many little drops of water. But not all clouds are alike. There are three kinds of clouds. Cirrus clouds are one kind. These are made of ice drops. They look very soft and light. Another kind of cloud is called a cumulus cloud. They are very large and deep and flat on the bottom. We usually see cumulus clouds on warm summer days. And finally there are stratus clouds, which cover the whole sky. These clouds make the sky gray and the sun does not shine at all.

THINKING OF THE TOPIC

A. Write the topics for these paragraphs. Be sure they are not too specific or too general. Work with another student.

1

In the United States drinking water comes from a few different places. Many cities get their drinking water from special lakes called reservoirs. Other cities get their water from rivers. For example, the drinking water for New Orleans comes from the Mississippi River. In some areas, people get their water from the mountains. The water from mountain snow is delicious and clean. In other areas people dig deep holes in the ground for water. These holes are called wells. Outside of cities, most people get their water this way.

Topic ________________________________

Many American scientists are worried about the drinking water in the United States. They think that soon there may be no more clean drinking water. Dirt, salt and chemicals from factories can get into the water. Then it is not safe to drink. This is already true in some places. One example is a small town in Massachusetts. Many children in this town became sick because of the dirty water. Another place with water problems is Sacramento, California. The water near an airport in Sacramento is not safe to drink. Many other cities and towns have water problems, too.

It is very important to use water carefully. Here are some ways you can use less water. First, you should be sure you turn off the faucets tightly. They should not drip in the bathroom or kitchen sink. Second, you should not keep the water on for a long time. You should turn it off while you are doing something else. It should be off while you are shaving or brushing your teeth. It should also be off while you are washing the dishes. Finally, in the summer you should water your garden in the evening. That way you will not lose a lot of water. During the day the sun dries up the earth too quickly.

Exercise 7  THINKING OF THE TOPIC

A. Write the topics for these paragraphs. Be sure they are not too specific or too general. Work with another student.

1

Finding a job is often difficult for a young person today. But it will be easier if you follow these steps. First, you have to decide what kind of job you want. Think about what kind of work you like to do. You should talk to your friends and your family about it. You can also talk to some people with different kinds of jobs. Next you need to write a resume. This tells about your education and your earlier jobs. It should be carefully typed. Then you are ready to start looking for a job.

Topic

The job of a young doctor is not easy. Doctors often spend many hours with a patient. There are usually more patients waiting. So doctors do not have much free time during the day. They often have to work all night in hospitals too. Or they may have to go somewhere suddenly when someone is ill. A doctor's decision may mean life or death for the patient. Even when doctors are very tired, they have to think very carefully.

Topic

The worst problem may be over when you find a good job. But you must think about keeping your job. You may lose it if you are not careful. Be sure you arrive at work on time every morning. You should not stop every hour for coffee. And you should not leave early too often. An important part of your job may be the way you work with other people. If you are difficult to work with, you may have trouble. Or you may have trouble if you do not make friends with the other people at your job. Remember these things if you want to keep your job!

B. Write the topic for all three paragraphs.
Exercise 8  THINKING OF THE TOPIC

A. Write the topics for these paragraphs. Be sure they are not too specific or too general. Work with another student.

Galileo was one of the first modern scientists. He was born in Pisa, Italy, in 1564. At first he studied philosophy. But later he studied mathematics and astronomy. He was very interested in the way the earth and other planets move around the sun. He found out several important facts about our world. He also started a new way of working in science. Before Galileo, scientists did not do experiments. They just guessed about how something happened. But Galileo was different. He did not just make guesses. He did experiments and watched to see what happened.

Galileo is famous for his study of how things fall. He was the first person to do experiments about this problem. Before, people thought that heavy things always fell faster than light things. He found out that this was not true. He took a heavy ball and a light ball and he dropped them both from a high place. They fell at the same speed. This meant that weight is not important. This is the law of falling bodies. It is an important law for understanding our world.

Topic ____________________________________________

The life of a scientist was not always easy in the 1500s. For example, Galileo had some trouble because of his scientific ideas. His ideas were not the same as the religious ideas at the time. Many religious people did not agree with him. During his whole life he had to worry about this. He even went to prison for a while. But no one could stop him from thinking. He continued to look for scientific answers.

The correct answer is (c) Bicycles are popular today for many reasons. This is the writer's main idea about bicycles. All the information in the paragraph is about this idea.

(a) is not correct because it is too specific. It is only one part of the paragraph.

(b) is not correct because the paragraph is not about this. The paragraph does not say bicycles are better than cars. It only says that some people like bicycles better than cars.
Exercise 1

Read each paragraph. Ask yourself, "What is the topic? What is the main idea?" Write the topic beside the best main idea. The Answer Key is on page 264.

1

Clothes can tell a lot about a person. Some people like very colorful clothes. They want everyone to look at them. They want to be the center of things. Other people like to wear nice clothes. But their clothes are not colorful or fancy. They do not like people to look at them. There are also some people who wear the same thing all the time. They do not care if anyone looks at them. They do not care what anyone thinks about them.

a. _______ are colorful.
b. _______ can tell a lot about a person.
c. _______ always look nice on some people.

It is important to bring the right clothes when you travel. If you are going to a cold country, you should bring warm clothes. Be sure you have a hat and gloves, too. If you are going to a hot country, you need different clothes. You do not want heavy or dark clothes. In hot weather, light clothes are best. If you are going to a city, you may need some nice clothes. You may want to go to a special restaurant or a concert. It is different if you are traveling by bicycle in the country. Then you will want comfortable clothes. But one rule is the same for all travelers. Do not bring too many clothes!

a. _______ for warm weather are light.
b. _______ are important when you travel.
c. _______ can be heavy.

3

Clothes today are very different from the clothes of the 1800s. One difference is the way they look. For example, in the 1800s all women wore dresses. The dresses all had long skirts. But today women do not always wear dresses with long skirts. Sometimes they wear short skirts. Sometimes they wear pants. Another difference between 1800 and today is the cloth. In the 1800s, clothes were made only from natural kinds of cloth. They were made from cotton, wool, silk or linen. But today, there are many new kinds of man-made cloth. A lot of clothes are now made from nylon, rayon, or polyester.

a. _______ of the 1800s were beautiful.
b. _______ are made of man-made cloth.
c. _______ today are different from the clothes of the 1800s.
Exercise 2

Read each paragraph. Ask yourself, "What is the topic? What is the main idea?" Write the topic beside the best main idea.

Before the 1600s people were interested in chemicals. But they did not study them like modern chemists. These early chemists were called alchemists. Their kind of chemistry was called alchemy. They had some strange ideas. For example, they believed they could make gold. They thought they could mix together the right things and have gold. For hundreds of years alchemists tried to do this. Of course, no one ever made gold this way.

a. _______ never made gold.
b. _______ lived before the 1600s.
c. _______ studied chemicals in strange ways.

Antoine Lavoisier is important in the history of modern chemistry. In the 1700s, he began to use a new way to study chemicals. Before Lavoisier, scientists just looked at something and thought about it. But Lavoisier did experiments. He studied the size and weight of many different things. He found out something important. He found out that nothing really goes away. It changes into something else. For example, when water boils, it becomes steam. This was a very important idea for the future of chemistry.

a. _______ learned an important fact by doing experiments.
b. _______ studied the size and weight of water.
c. _______ lived in the 1700s.

Lavoisier is best known as a chemist. He learned some very important facts about chemistry. And he gave names to many chemicals. These are the same names we use today. Some of Lavoisier's other ideas were important, too. He used science to improve farming. He also worked on a way to improve France's banks and government. He helped to make the taxes and money the same all over France. Lavoisier was a great man in many ways.

a. _______ was a scientist.
b. _______ helped change the taxes and money in France.
c. _______ was a great man in many ways.
Exercise 3

Read each paragraph. Ask yourself, "What is the topic? What is the writer's idea about the topic?" Choose the best main idea sentence.

Cats and dogs are both popular pets. But cats are nicer pets in some ways. Cats are cleaner, first of all. They stay very clean and they do not make the house dirty. Cats are also quieter than dogs. They usually do not make a lot of noise. Cats are safer, too. Dogs sometimes bite people, but cats almost never do. And finally, cats are easier to take care of. You do not have to spend much time with a cat. In fact, many cats prefer to be alone.

a. Some people prefer cats as pets.
b. Cats do not make a lot of noise.
c. Cats are nicer than dogs in some ways.

2

Many children want to have a pet. But parents do not like the idea of a dog or a cat in the house. In fact, pets can be good for children. A pet means something to play with. This can be especially important if there is only one child. Also, children can learn a lot from a pet. They can learn about animals and the natural world. Children also learn about taking care of something. They cannot forget about their pet. This is an important lesson for all children.

a. Children usually want a dog or a cat.
b. Pets may be good for children.
c. Parents sometimes do not like pets.

Most Americans think of cats as pets, But not all cats are pets. Some cats help people and others are a problem. For example, on farms and in old houses, cats can help. They kill small animals such as rats or mice. But sometimes, people do not want cats around. Some people like to watch birds in their yards. Cats may kill the birds or scare them away. Cats are also a problem in cities. In Rome, for example, thousands of cats live in the streets and old buildings. They make a lot of noise, and they are dirty and dangerous.

a. Cats can be a problem.
b. Most Americans think of cats as pets.
c. Cats are not just pets.
Exercise 4

Read each paragraph. Ask yourself, "What is the topic? What is the writer's idea about the topic?" Choose the best main idea sentence.

The earth is always changing. One way it changes is by erosion. Some erosion is caused by the weather. For example, the wind causes erosion. In a desert, the wind blows the sand around. Rain also causes erosion. It washes away earth and even changes the shape of some rocks. Another kind of erosion is caused by rivers. When a river goes through a mountain, it cuts into the mountain. After a long time, the mountain is lower and the land is flatter.

a. Rain causes erosion.

b. Mountains change after a long time.

c. Erosion changes the earth.

2

Mt. Vesuvius in Italy and Mt. St. Helens in the United States are both famous mountains. They are both volcanoes. A volcano is a mountain that is open at the top. Smoke and hot air come out of the hole. Sometimes very hot rock also comes out of the mountain. That can mean trouble for people nearby. This is what happened with Mt. Vesuvius and Mt. St. Helens. Hot rock poured out of Mt. Vesuvius and covered the town of Pompeii in 79 A.D. Everyone in the town was killed. The Mt. St. Helens volcano did not kill many people. There were no cities close to the mountain. But the hot rock killed a large part of the forest. And a lot of dirt fell on cities many miles away.

a. Volcanoes can be dangerous.

b. The Mt. St. Helens and Mt. Vesuvius volcanoes both caused trouble.

c. A volcano is a mountain with a hole at the top.

Scientists know a lot about the earth. For example, they understand how mountains are made and what a volcano is. But they do not know when a volcano will send hot rock into the air. They may know about the outside of the earth. But they still are not sure about the inside. And scientists are not sure about how the earth was made. They have many different ideas about this. There are still many difficult questions for scientists who study the earth.

a. Scientists have different ideas about how the earth was made.

b. Scientists now know a lot about the earth.

c. Scientists still have many questions about the earth.
Exercise 5

Read each paragraph. Ask yourself, "What is the topic? What is the writer's idea about the topic?" Then write the main idea sentence.

1

Not all newspaper ads are for selling things. Some ads are about people. The "Help Wanted" ads give information about jobs. All kinds of jobs are found in this part of the newspaper. There are ads for secretaries and electricians, doctors and professors. Another kind of ad about people is the "Personal" ad. These ads are not about work. They are written by people who are looking for friends. Sometimes these people are even looking for husbands and wives. Newspaper ads are a very good way to get people together.

Main idea

We can learn a lot about a country from the "Personal" ads. These ads tell us about people and their problems. One example of this is from Spain. In a small town in Spain there were forty-two men. But there were not many women there. The men wanted to find wives. So they put a personal ad in a city newspaper. Some women in the city were not happy living alone. So they answered the ad by telephone. They wanted to find out more about the town and the men. But the women did not go to live in the town. They did not really want to work on farms. They did not really want to marry small-town men. So the men did not find wives. And the women are still alone. Not all men and women in Spain are like these people. But this ad may tell us something about larger problems in Spain.

Main idea

Personal ads are usually written for good reasons. Most of the people who write them really do want a friend. But sometimes people write personal ads for other reasons. They may write the ad as a joke. This is not a nice thing to do. The people who answer the ads may be unhappy. They may need a friend very much. Some of the people who write the ads can cause worse problems. They may want to hurt someone. So, if you answer a personal ad, you should be careful. The ad may not mean what it says.

"Black Thursday" is a day many Americans will never forget. It was October 24, 1929, the beginning of the Great Depression. Before that day, business in America was growing fast. Between 1914 and 1929, it grew about 62%. But on "Black Thursday" everything changed. On that day, American business suddenly stopped growing. In fact, many businesses stopped completely. The next few years of American history are called the Great Depression. These were terrible years for business and for the people. Five thousand banks and 85,000 businesses failed. Many people lost all their money. About 12 million Americans lost their jobs.

The Great Depression of the early 1930s surprised many people. They did not think American business could have such terrible problems. For a long time, they did not believe the problems were serious. Many businessmen hoped for better times soon. Even President Hoover did not think the Depression was serious. He told Americans in 1930 that the problems were already going away. But this was not true. Millions of Americans did not have jobs. Many of these people did not have homes or food. Life was hard for many Americans. And it did not get easier for many years.

Main idea

3

The Great Depression finally ended for several reasons. One reason was a new government with new ideas. In 1932, Franklin D. Roosevelt became President of the United States. He made many changes in the laws to help people. New laws helped American banks and businesses. Other laws gave people jobs and housing. But Roosevelt's government was only one reason for the end of the Depression. The other reason was World War II. In the late 1930s, the United States began to get ready for the war. New factories were built for war planes and ships. That meant more jobs. These jobs gave many people a chance to change their lives.

1

Population growth is a serious problem around the world. At the beginning of the 20th century there were about 1.5 billion people in the world. In 1984 the world population was 4.8 billion people. By the year 2000, it will be about 6.1 billion.

Main idea

This growth in population is not happening everywhere. For example, in Europe the population is not growing at all. Families in these countries are smaller now. Only about 2.1 children are born for every woman. The United States also has smaller families. Its population is only growing a little every year.

Main idea

But in other areas of the world, the population is growing very fast. This is true in parts of Africa, South America, and Asia. Countries in these areas have a difficult future ahead. Already, these countries have serious problems. First of all, food is a problem in many countries. Many people do not get enough to eat every day. There is not enough housing or work for everyone. Also, many people do not get education or medical care. A larger population will make all these problems worse.

But there is some hope for change. It may be possible to slow down population growth. It happened in China, for example. In 1974, China's population was growing very fast. Then the people learned how to have smaller families. By 1984, the population was not growing fast anymore. This is an important change. China is the largest country in the world, with over one billion people. If China can make this change, maybe other countries can, too.

American cities changed in many ways after World War II. Many people moved out of the city. They moved to the suburbs. The areas around a city. Most of the people who moved were rich. Poor people usually did not have enough money to move. They stayed in the cities.

During the 1950s and 60s there was another important change in American cities. Businesses began to leave the city, too. They left because the people in the city were poorer. Poor people do not have much money to buy things. So, many shops and restaurants moved out to the suburbs. People in the suburbs had more money to spend.

Cities began to have many serious problems. The rich people and the businesses did not pay city taxes anymore. The poor people could not pay much money in taxes. So cities had less money for schools and housing. Sometimes they could not pay their police officers or firefighters. And they could not take good care of their streets and parks.

But money was only part of the problem. Many people believed that American cities were dying. They had good reason to believe this. City streets were sadly empty. Many neighborhoods and parks were dirty and dangerous. In some places buildings were even falling down. And nobody seemed to care. This was the real problem. Most of the people and businesses with money were in the suburbs. They did not care what happened to the cities.

Finding the Pattern of Organization

Study these pictures for 60 seconds. Your teacher will time you.

1 2 3 4 5

After 60 seconds, turn the page. Try to draw the pictures. Do not look back.
Try to remember the pictures. Draw them here.

Now look back and check your drawings.

Which picture was the most difficult to remember? ____________

Why? ____________________________________________

Pictures 1, 2, 3 and 5 were easy because they have a pattern. Picture 4 does not have a pattern, so it is more difficult to remember. In English, there are patterns, too. When you read, look for the patterns. They will help you understand and remember what you read.

There are many patterns in English. Writers often use these four patterns. Here are some examples:

1. Listing — Ways to travel:
   plane train bus ship

2. Time order — Wars in American history:
   1776 — American Revolution
   1812 — War of 1812
   1860 — Civil War
   1914 — World War I
   1940 — World War II

3. Cause-effect — Cause: heavy rain
   Effect: car accidents on the highway

4. Comparison — Comparing Paris and New York:
   How are they alike?
   expensive beautiful buildings
   many art museums
   How are they different?
   Paris is a capital city; New York is not a capital city
   Paris is safer; New York is larger
EXAMPLE A

Diamonds are very expensive for several reasons. First, they are difficult to find. They are only found in a few places in the world. Second, they are useful. People use diamonds to cut other stones. Third, diamonds do not change. They stay the same for millions of years. And finally, they are very beautiful.

Computers are helpful in many ways. First, they are fast. They can work with information much more quickly than a person. Second, computers can work with lots of information at the same time. Third, they can keep information for a long time. They do not forget things the way people do. Also, computers are almost always correct. Also, most universities offer day and night courses in computer science. Another way to learn is from a book. There are many books about computers in book stores and libraries. Or, you can learn from a friend. After a few hours of practice, you too can work with computers. You may not be an expert, but you can have fun!

Computer language can be funny at times. For example, we say computers have a "memory." We know they do not really remember or think. But we still say "memory." Also, on many computer programs there is a "menu." Of course, we are not talking about restaurants or food. This is a different kind of menu. Another funny example is the "mouse" in some computers. It is hard not to think about a real mouse when you hear the word. But do not worry: there are no little gray animals in the machine.

The first computers were very large machines. Now computers come in all shapes and sizes. There are still big computers for companies or universities. There are other special computers for factories. These large computers tell the factory machines what to do. But there are also small personal computers to use at home or in an office. There are even computers in telephones, television sets, and cars. These computers have to be very small. They are so small you cannot even see all their parts.

Computers are very useful, but they also can cause problems. One kind of problem is with the computer’s memory. It is not perfect, so sometimes computers lose important information. Another problem is with the machinery. Computers are machines, and machines can break down. When computers break down, they may erase information, like chalk on a blackboard. Or they may stop doing anything at all. And there is another, different kind of problem with computers. Some doctors say they may be bad for your health. They say you should not work with computers all day.

Exercise 4

Almost every profession now uses computers. They are used for all kinds of work. For example, scientists use them. So do mathematicians and economists. Business people use them to make business decisions. Doctors also use computers to help their patients. Computers make work easier for writers, too. And even students now use computers to help in their studies. Finally, some people use computers at home to help them make plans and pay bills.

Everyone knows that computers are useful. And there are many wonderful new computer programs. But there are other reasons to like computers. Some people like the way computers hum and sing when they are working. It is a happy sound, like the sounds of toys and childhood. Computers also have lights and pretty pictures. With a computer anyone can feel like an artist. And computers even seem to have personalities. That may sound strange, but computers seem to have feelings. Sometimes they seem happy, sometimes they seem angry. It is easy to think they are like people.

TIME ORDER

EXAMPLE A
Albert Einstein was born in 1879 in Ulm, Germany. He graduated from the University of Zurich in Switzerland in 1905. In 1905 he also did some of his most famous work in physics. In 1919 he won the Nobel Prize for Physics. Between 1919 and 1933 he lived in Germany and traveled a lot to talk to other scientists. Then in 1933 he had to leave Germany because of Hitler and the Nazi party. He moved to the United States. From 1933 until his death he lived in Princeton, New Jersey. He died on April 18, 1955.

What is the topic of this paragraph? ____________________________

How can you tell this is a time order pattern? _________________

You can tell because the signals in this paragraph are all dates. Each date points to an event in the life of Albert Einstein. Here are all the signals. Write the events:

EXAMPLE B

This paragraph is about the same events as Example A. But the signal words are different.

Albert Einstein was born near the end of the 1800s, in Ulm, Germany. He graduated from the University of Zurich in Switzerland at age 26. That was also when he did his famous work in physics. Fourteen years later he won the Nobel Prize for Physics. For the next ten years he lived in Germany. He also traveled a lot to talk with other scientists. Then in the early 1930s he had to leave Germany because of Hitler and the Nazi Party. He moved to the United States. From that time until his death he lived in Princeton, New Jersey. He died at the age of 74.

The Vietnam War began soon after World War II. At first, in 1946, the war was between the Vietnamese and the French. The government was French, but many Vietnamese people did not want a French government. They wanted the French to leave so they could have their own government. The Vietnamese fought hard, and slowly they won more and more land. By 1953, the French army was in trouble. They were not winning the war. French soldiers were dying and the war was costing a lot of money. So, in 1954, the French army stopped fighting and left Vietnam. That was the end of the first part of the Vietnam War.

The second part of the Vietnam War began in 1954. After the French army left, there were two Vietnams: North Vietnam and South Vietnam. There were also two governments. But both governments wanted to be the only government for all of Vietnam. So from 1954 until 1960, the North and the South were fighting all the time. The North Vietnamese grew slowly stronger. By the beginning of 1965, the North Vietnamese were winning the war. But the United States government did not want the North Vietnamese to win. So in March 1965, the United States began to help South Vietnam. They sent guns and airplanes to help the South. At first, the United States sent only a few soldiers. But by July 1965, there were about 75,000 American soldiers in Vietnam.

In 1965 the Vietnam War became an American war. That year, the United States sent airplanes with bombs over North Vietnam. The North Vietnamese were moving into South Vietnam and the United States government wanted to stop them. More and more bombs were used each year. The bombs killed thousands of North Vietnamese men, women, and children. Thousands more lost their homes and their land. The United States also sent more soldiers every year. By the end of 1967, there were almost 510,000 Americans in Vietnam. And still, the North Vietnamese were winning the war.

In the United States, some people did not want the war. In the early 1960s only a few people felt this way. But by the late 1960s many people believed Americans should not be fighting in Vietnam. Finally, the American government had to listen to these people. In May 1968, the Americans began to talk to North Vietnam about stopping the war. For the next few months, fewer bombs were used against the North. By the end of the year, the bombing stopped. It still took a long time to end the war. American soldiers started to go home in 1970. The last Americans left three years later.

Anh Nguyen is Vietnamese. She was born in 1960 in Hue, a large city in South Vietnam. When she was four years old her family moved to Saigon. She finished grammar school in 1972, and then she went to high school. The first year of high school was a happy year for Anh. She liked her classes, especially French and English. In the fall, she won a prize for a French paper. That winter she decided she wanted to go to study in France. Anh dreamed about France all year. She studied very hard for her French class, and in the spring she did very well on her examinations.

But Anh had to change all her plans because of the war. In 1973, life in Saigon was changing. The American soldiers were leaving. The war did not stop after the American soldiers left. But the South Vietnamese did not have a strong army anymore. They could not stop the North Vietnamese. In 1974, the North Vietnamese army moved into Saigon. That was the end of South Vietnam. It was also the end of the old life for Anh. For Anh and for others, there were new troubles that year. Food, clothing, and other things became more expensive. Sometimes the shops were empty. But there were worse troubles. Anh's father was taken away from his family because he once worked for the Americans. She never saw him again.

The next few years were unhappy and difficult for Anh. At first she continued to go to school. But she did not enjoy it anymore. She could not study English or French. After a while she stopped going to school and started working in a factory. Her family needed money and there were no other jobs. But she did not like factory work.

At last she decided she had to do something. She did not want to work in a factory all her life. She wanted an education. She wanted a more interesting job. So she decided to leave Vietnam and go to the United States. Other Vietnamese people had the same idea. In fact, from 1974 to 1976, hundreds of thousands of Vietnamese left their country.

The day came for Anh to say goodbye to her family. She did not know if she was going to see them again. She walked many miles to a small town by the ocean. She and about 40 other people got into a small boat. They left Vietnam at night.

For several days they sailed with no trouble. But the wind stopped and the boat stopped moving. They did not have enough food or water. Some people began to get sick. A boat came near them but it did not stop to help them.

Finally a large Japanese ship came near. It stopped and picked up all the Vietnamese. They were almost all very sick, including Anh. The ship took them to a camp in the Philippine Islands. This was a special camp for Vietnamese people. It was crowded in the camp, but Anh felt safe.

Anh had a cousin who lived in the United States. She wrote to him right away, and she asked if she could stay with him and his family in Boston. He wrote back and said yes. She showed his letter to the United States immigration office. She was ready to apply for an American visa. But she still had to wait many months for the visa. While she was waiting, she took English classes and studied hard.

Finally, almost one year later, she got her visa. A refugee group gave her a plane ticket and some money. She was ready at last to start her new life.
Exercise 5

Anh arrived in Boston in December, 1979. She had only her suitcase and her English dictionary. The only person she knew in the United States was her cousin Pho. He and his wife To-van were there to meet her at the airport. She was very happy to see them!

That evening Anh asked Pho and To-Van many questions. She wanted to know about Boston and about Americans. She was surprised that To-van often could not answer her questions. To-van's friends were all Vietnamese people. She shopped only at the Vietnamese stores in their neighborhood. She worked at Pho's Vietnamese restaurant nearby. So To-van did not know much about Boston, and she did not speak English very well.

That night Anh made a decision before she went to sleep. She decided that she did not want to be like To-van. She wanted to speak English well. She wanted to go to school with Americans and she wanted to work with them. Of course she did not want to forget about Vietnam. But she wanted to be part of her new country.

It was not easy. There were many new things in her life. The first winter in Boston seemed very cold to Anh. In January, she started studying at the high school. English was a serious problem. She could not understand her teachers and they could not understand her. Anh often felt very unhappy and alone. Her old home in Saigon seemed very far away and she missed her family terribly.

But by summer the worst times were over for Anh. Her English was much better, and she began to make some friends at school. For the next two years she studied very hard. In math, science, and French she was the best student in her class. She won a prize for a chemistry experiment.

But, best of all, at the end of her last year of high school, she won a scholarship to college. The scholarship was very important to Anh. She needed the money to go to college. Going to college was the key to success, she knew. Finally Anh had a plan. She planned to study science and computers in college. After college she could get a good job. She could earn money and send it to her mother. Then her mother could come to the United States, too. It seemed a long time to wait. But Anh knew she could do it! And she did.

EXAMPLE A
In this paragraph look for one cause and several effects. The signals are underlined.

A cold winter causes serious problems in Florida. It has a bad effect on farming. The farmers there grow a lot of oranges. Very cold weather can cause orange trees to die. Cold weather also results in fewer tourists. There are many hotels and vacation places in Florida. These places are in trouble if there are fewer tourists. And finally, very cold weather can cause health problems. Many people do not have heating in their homes. So they can become ill from the cold.

There are many different causes of car accidents in the United States. Sometimes accidents are caused by bad weather. Ice or snow can make roads very dangerous. Accidents also can result from problems with the car. Even a small problem like a flat tire can be serious. Bad roads are another cause of accidents. Some accidents happen because the driver falls asleep. And finally, some accidents are caused by drinking too much alcohol. In fact, this is one of the most important causes of accidents.

Most people do not think of coffee as a drug. But, in fact, it is a drug and it has important effects on your body. Some of the effects are good and some are not. Coffee can help you stay awake when you are driving or working. But it can also keep you awake at night when you want to sleep. Coffee makes some people feel more alive so they can work better. Other people feel too nervous when they drink coffee. After a large meal, coffee can help your stomach. But too much coffee can cause a stomachache.

Aspirin is a simple drug. It has many useful effects. It can stop a headache or an earache. It helps take away pain in the fingers or knees. Aspirin can stop a fever if you have the flu. Or it can make you feel better if you have a cold. Some doctors believe that aspirin also can result in a healthy heart. They say that some people should take an aspirin every day. For those people, aspirin may stop heart disease.

Scientists and doctors say that about 34 million Americans are too fat. Why is this? One cause is the kind of food Americans eat. Many Americans like "fast foods." These foods (such as hamburgers and ice cream) often have fattening things in them. Another cause is the way Americans eat. They often eat little snacks between regular meals. These extra foods add extra fat on the body. A third cause is not enough exercise. Americans like driving everywhere, instead of walking. They often have machines to do a lot of the work. Some Americans are also too heavy because of health problems. But for most of those 34 million Americans, the problem is the American lifestyle.

If you are too fat, you may have serious problems with you health. A group of doctors wrote a report about some of the effect of too much fat. One important effect is on the heart. If you are fat your heart has to work harder. This may lead to a heart attack. Or it may lead to other heart problems. Extra fat can also change the amount of sugar in your blood. This can cause serious diseases such as diabetes. High blood pressure is another possible result of being fat. Even cancer can sometimes be a result. More studies are needed about all these problems. But one thing is clear: extra fat may make your life shorter.

Lemons and limes are very similar kinds of fruit. They are both grown in warm places. They both have hard skins and soft insides. People do not usually eat whole lemons and limes. People used to have very different ways of eating in Europe. Now everyone uses forks, knives, and spoons. But a thousand years ago, no one used forks at the table. They used only spoons and knives. Today most Europeans do not eat with their fingers. But back then many people picked up their food in their hands. In those days most people did not use glasses for drinking. Instead they drank from bowls or large wooden cups.

Shopping for food in the United States today is not the same as it used to be. Fifty years ago every neighborhood had a little food market. Now every neighborhood has a big supermarket. These are very different places. The old markets were usually small and friendly. People from the neighborhood often stopped there to hear the news or to talk. However, this is not true in supermarkets. Supermarkets are very large and not very friendly. They are not good places for meeting friends or talking. People in supermarkets always seem to be tired and in a hurry. Often they are not very polite.

Medical care is very different in England and in the United States. In England medical care is national. That means the government pays for all medical care. But in the United States it is private. That means each person pays for their own medical care. English doctors, dentists and hospitals are free. But in the United States they are all very expensive. Everyone in England gets medical care, even the poor people. It is not like this in the United States. Only Americans with a lot of money can pay for good medical care. Poor Americans sometimes get help from the government and sometimes they do not.

Skimming

Speed is often very important when you are reading. You may have a lot to read, but not much time. For this kind of reading you usually do not want to know and remember everything. You only want to find out something about it. You can do this by skimming.

You may want to skim:
- newspaper or magazine articles.
- book covers in a book store (so you can find out if you want to buy the book).
- library books (so you can find out if they have the information you need).
- mystery, detective or other novels.

SKIMMING FOR POINT OF VIEW

Skimming is helpful when you want to find out quickly about the writer. You may want to find out what the writer thinks about some idea. This is the writer’s point of view.

When you want to know the point of view you do not need to read everything. You only need to read a few important words:

EXAMPLE A

Dogs are often a problem at home. Many dogs are noisy and dirty. They may even be dangerous for small children.

Does this writer like dogs at home? no

You do not need to read all the sentences to learn this. You only have to read the words “problem,” “noisy,” “dirty” and “dangerous.” From those words you can tell the writer’s point of view. This writer is against dogs at home.

EXAMPLE B

An apartment looks much nicer with some plants. The green leaves make it seem cooler in summer. The flowers give it a happy feeling.

Does this writer like plants in an apartment? ______

How do you know this? List the important words: __________

SKIMMING FOR IDEAS

You can also skim when you want to find out the general idea quickly. Speed is important for this kind of skimming, too. You should skim at least two times faster than you usually read.

But you can only do this if you change the way you read. You cannot read every word or even every sentence. You have to leave out a lot. In fact, you should leave out everything except a few important words. These are the words that tell you the general idea.

Here are the steps for skimming a chapter from a book or an article from a magazine or newspaper:

1. Read the first few sentences at your usual speed. Ask yourself, "What is this about?"

2. Go to the next paragraph as soon as you can guess the general idea. Remember, you do not need to know the details. You only want to learn something very general about the chapter or article.

3. Read only a few words in each paragraph after that. You should look for the words that tell you more about the general idea. Often they are at the beginning of the paragraph. But they may also be at the end.

4. Always work quickly. Remember that details are no important.
EXAMPLE

Here is an example from a newspaper article. Most of the article is not there. You will only find a few sentences at the beginning and a few words in each paragraph. But you should still be able to learn the general ideas of the article. Read this article and try to answer the questions.

Mother Teresa
by Catherine Podjil
(Scott, Foresman and Company)

In 1979, Mother Teresa won the Nobel Prize for Peace. This book tells about her life-long work with poor people and how she finally became famous.

The story begins with her childhood in Yugoslavia. She was born in 1910. At the age of 18, she decided to become a nun. The Catholic religion was very important to her. But for her, the most important part of the religion was helping other people. She especially wanted to help the poor people in India.

She first worked as a schoolteacher in India. But her students were not poor people. So, finally, she left the school. That was when she began her real life’s work. She walked the streets in Indian cities looking for people who needed help. She gave them food, clothing or medicine.

After a while, other nuns began to help her. She built hospitals and schools for the poor. She also started a special group of nuns called the Order of the Missionaries of Charity. They began to work with the poor people in many countries around the world.

Important people sometimes gave Mother Teresa money or cars for her work. But the money and cars always went to the poor people. She lived very simply and worked very hard. The Nobel Prize gave her $100,000. She will use this money to continue her work.

This book gives many interesting details about her life and work. We may not be able to give our lives to the poor like Mother Teresa. But we can learn a lot from her.

A New Drug for Heart Attacks

Doctors may now be able to stop many heart attacks. An important new study reports that doctors have a new drug. This drug is called TPA. It may be better than any other heart drug.

Many doctors now use a drug called Streptokinase. But this drug sometimes causes problems for patients. It can even cause bleeding in the brain. Some doctors do not use streptokinase. Streptokinase can save about $\frac{1}{3}$ of the people with heart attacks. But TPA will save about $\frac{3}{5}$. This means many people. About 1.5 million Americans have heart attacks every year.

One reason TPA can help more people is because of time. This new drug is easier and faster to use. It will give doctors more time in hospitals. Then they can study the problem well. People with heart problems can also keep some TPA at home. When a heart attack starts, they can take some TPA right away. Then they will have time to get to the hospital. This is important because about 860,000 people in the United States die before they get to the hospital.

There is another reason why TPA is good news for people with heart attacks. According to the study, it is much safer. It does not cause other problems like streptokinase. TPA works only on the heart. It does not have an effect on the blood or cause bleeding, like streptokinase.

Doctors plan to do more studies about TPA. They need to test this new drug on many more people with heart attacks. But in a few years, many doctors and hospitals will probably start using this exciting new drug.

1. The new drug is
   a. the same as streptokinase.
   b. better than streptokinase.
   c. called streptokinase.
   d. bad for people with heart attacks.

2. The study says that TPA
   a. is safer and faster than the old drug.
   b. is very dangerous.
   c. slower and harder to use than the old drug.
   d. causes many problems.

3. This new drug may mean
   a. more people will die from heart attacks.
   b. the same number of people will die from heart attacks
   c. fewer people will die from heart attacks.
   d. no one will die from heart attacks.

Sports in the German Democratic Republic
(adapted from the World Press Review, October 1984)

Many East Germans are already thinking about the year 2000. That is an Olympics year. The East Germans are very serious about the Olympic Games. They want to do well in 2000, so they are getting ready now.

Teachers, sports coaches, and parents are watching children at play. They are looking for children who will be good at sports. They say they can tell a lot about a very young child. They can already tell if the child will be good at sports.

These children will have special training. The Germans believe it is important to start at a very young age. The children may be only six or seven years old. For two hours, three times a week, they will train at a sport.

When they are a little older, they may go to the children's Olympic Games. These are specially for East Germans. The children come from all over East Germany for these games. Every morning she gets up at 6:30. She goes first to her regular classes. Then she spends six or seven hours a day training with her judo coach. She hopes to win the gold medal at the 2000 Olympics.

This is not an impossible dream. The East Germans often win many medals at the Olympics. Their planning seems to work well. Probably they will continue to win medals at future Olympics. And Rene Holitz may be one of the winners.

   a. have children.

Women in China Today
(adapted from the World Press Review, March 1985)

What kind of jobs do women have in China today? Well, here are a few examples: Zhao Changbai is a manager of one of China’s largest companies. Zou Hon is the manager of a large restaurant company. Wan Shiren is an important scientist who works in China’s space program.

The list could go on. According to Zhang Guoying of the All-China Women’s Federation, women are now important to the country. She says the government believes this too. China needs educated women to help make the country more modern.

This was not true 50 years ago. Then, there were few women in important jobs. Women worked mostly at home or in factories. But now there are more than 40 million women working in China. That is 40% of all the people who work. These working women include many women who work in factories. But now there are also many women scientific and technical workers—almost two million. And about 7,000 of these women are professors, engineers, chemists, and biologists. Some women are also working in important government positions, as governors or ministers.

It was not easy for these women, says Zhang Guoying. She believes that Chinese women have more difficulties than Chinese men. Women still have to take care of their families. That means they really have two jobs. One is at their office or factory and the other is at home. This is the same problem women have in many other parts of the world.

The government in China is trying to make life better for women. It is building more day-care centers for the children of working mothers. It is helping women get a better education and find better jobs. According to Zhang Guoying, the future for women in China should even be better.

1. In China today,
   a. more women are working.
   b. most women do not work.
   c. fewer women are working.
   d. women do not like to work.

2. Chinese women now
   a. have jobs only in factories.
   b. have few important jobs.
   c. have important jobs.
   d. do not work for the government.

3. For a Chinese woman
   a. life is now very easy.
   b. work is now very easy.
   c. life is still not easy.
   d. families are not important.

"We're not getting any younger!" Dr. Diamond often says to his wife.

"Maybe next year we'll go somewhere,?" she usually answers. "Now we're just too busy."

One day Sam Diamond went to the doctor for a checkup. He felt fine. He told the doctor he had no problems. The doctor examined him carefully and listened to his heart. Then he said, "I have bad news for you. You'll have heart trouble soon if you don't change your life. You must lose weight. You must exercise more and you must get more rest."

Sam was unhappy. He liked to eat good food. He usually did no exercise. And he liked to work hard at his job. But he was worried about his heart.

Sam told Susan the bad news. She was worried, too. Then she said, "Maybe the doctor is right. Maybe we do need to make some big changes in our lives."

"This WILL be a big change. I'll have to eat less and start to exercise!" said Sam.

"I'll help you," said Susan. "I'll exercise with you. But I was thinking of some other changes too. I was thinking about taking a real vacation. Let's take a trip somewhere. Let's go some place where you can really relax."

"We can go visit Ted in Italy!" said Sam.
"Or Jane in California!" said Susan.

The next day, Sam began to make some changes in his life. No more cookies at lunch, no more cake for dessert, and no sweets in the afternoon. It was hard. All day his stomach made funny noises. At night he dreamed about big and delicious meals. He also began to exercise with Susan. They jogged every morning before work. This was even harder than the diet.

"We're crazy," Sam told his wife one morning. It was raining.

"My legs hurt and I'm cold."

"Think about Italy or California," Susan said.

"Everyone says the food is wonderful and the people are very friendly."

"Jane says the same thing about California," Susan said. "She says San Francisco is the most beautiful city."

This was the beginning of an unhappy time for the Diamonds. After they went to the travel agent, Susan wanted to go to California. But Sam wanted to go to Italy.

"We want to change our lives, don't we?" he asked Susan. "Then we should go someplace really different!"

"But Italy's so expensive," Susan answered. "We're not millionaires!"

"We waited for many years, our whole lives, for this vacation!" said Sam. "We may not get another chance. You know, we're not getting any younger!"

"You just want to go to Italy because of the food!" said Susan. "That's not true!"

"You'll eat too much and get sick," said Susan. "I know you. You'll never be able to diet in Italy!"

And so, they began to argue. They argued while they were jogging. They argued at breakfast. They argued at dinner. And all the time they were in a terrible mood. They didn't enjoy the things they used to enjoy. They stopped going to parties and they didn't invite friends over for dinner. Sam didn't talk much to his patients. Susan didn't want to work in her garden. Even the pets were unhappy. The cat ran away and the dog hid under the bed.

So the Diamonds decided to go to Italy. Sam bought an Italian dictionary and an Italian cookbook. He invited all their friends for dinner. They enjoyed his favorite Italian dish, spaghetti with meat sauce. Everyone laughed when he tried to speak Italian.

Susan didn’t eat much spaghetti. “It’s very heavy,” she told Sam. “You shouldn’t eat so much of it. It’s not good for you.”

“This is a special day,” he said. “Can’t we forget about my heart for one day?”

But Susan couldn’t stop worrying about everything. She was very worried about this trip.

“Rome is a big city,” she said to Sam. “People say it’s dangerous too. We might get lost and then what will we do?”

“No problem,” said Sam. “I’ll speak Italian. We’ll be fine. Stop worrying! We’ll have a great time!”

Susan was not so sure. But she tried to forget her worries. She asked Jane to stay in their house with the pets. Sam asked his friend Dr. Hamilton to take care of his patients. They bought the plane tickets and made all their plans. Then they wrote a letter to Ted and Maria. “Guess what!” it said. “We’re coming to Italy. We’ll arrive in Rome on the 10th of May. We can’t wait to see you!”

Dear Mom and Dad,

We have some exciting news for you. Maria is going to have a baby! We didn’t tell you right away. At first the doctor said she might have some trouble with the baby. Now he says she is just fine. She’s very healthy and happy — and large! She still works on her paintings every day. But she stopped teaching art classes. She gets tired more quickly now.

There is going to be another big change in our lives. We’re moving back to New York! We wanted to be closer to you and to Jane. It’s much nicer to be near the family for something important like a baby. Maria grew up in Mexico, and she doesn’t have a family. So that makes you even more important to us.

Maria is a little worried about working in New York. She will have to start again there. In Italy her paintings are already popular. But I’m sure people will like them in New York, too. My job won’t be any problem. I’m still going to work for The New York Times. I’ll be writing about the United Nations in New York.

We’re planning to move next month. See you then!

Love

Susan and Sam were very excited about the news from Ted and Maria. Soon they were going to be grandparents! And soon their children were all going to be home again.

But they didn’t know what to do now about their vacation.

"Maybe we should forget about a vacation," said Susan.

"We could still go somewhere later," said Sam.

"Where? That’s always the problem."

"How about England?" asked Sam. "I hear they have great breakfasts."

"Well, language is not a problem in England," said Susan.

"And you could visit the famous English gardens," said Sam.

"True." said Susan. "There’s Kew Gardens and Kensington Gardens and all those big houses."

"So it’s England?" asked Sam.

"Oh, why not? But only if you don’t eat too many of those breakfasts!" said Susan.

"I won’t eat anything until teatime," said Sam.

"But they have cakes and cookies at teatime!"

"I’m only joking!" Sam laughed. "I’ll just drink tea all day, if you want."

"Okay, okay," said Susan, and she laughed too.

Finally, Susan and Sam could stop arguing. Sometimes in the evenings they talked about their children. Sometimes they talked about their travel plans. While they were talking, the cat sat in Susan’s lap. The dog lay down beside Sam’s chair. The house was quiet again.

The next month passed very quickly. Susan and Sam were very busy. They cleaned out Ted and Jane’s old bedrooms. They called many of their old friends and their aunts, uncles and cousins. They wanted everyone to know all the good news.

At last, the big day came. Susan and Sam drove to the airport to meet Ted and Maria. They found out that the flight from Rome was late. So they sat down in the coffee shop and ordered tea. But they did not have time to drink it. They heard someone say:

"The flight from Rome is arriving now at Gate 12."

So they left their tea and rushed over to Gate 12. Ted and Maria were getting off the plane. Susan and Sam watched them go through the long line for customs. Finally, they were all together. There was a lot of hugging and kissing. Everyone was talking at once. Susan was even crying a little.

"It’s too much!” she said. “I’m too happy! You’re here and Jane will be here next week...”

Sam put his arm around her shoulder. "This isn’t a time for crying,” he said. "This is a time to celebrate. Let’s go home to Rosebud. I’ll cook up a nice big spaghetti dinner for us all.”

The next week, Jane arrived in New York. Susan and Sam went to the airport to meet her. They were very surprised when they saw her. She looked very different. Jane used to be a student. Before she went to California she always dressed like a student. She had long hair and she wore blue jeans. Now she was wearing a fancy suit and she had a new haircut. She didn’t look like their daughter at all. She looked like a New York business woman.

Jane was full of ideas for her new life in New York. She wanted to find an apartment in the city. She wanted to do well at her job. She wanted to visit all her friends in New York.

Soon Jane was very busy. She went in to the city early every morning and came home very late. She was working hard, but she was also enjoying herself very much.

"So, how do you like New York?" asked Sam one day. It was the end of Jane's first week.

"Well, in some ways San Francisco is a nicer city," said Jane. "It's cleaner, first of all. The air is cleaner and so are the streets. People in California don't leave their garbage on the sidewalks. But they do in New York."

"Also, San Francisco has less crime. I was never afraid there. But here people are always afraid. My friends in New York have strong locks on their doors. They worry at night. They're always telling me to be careful on the streets."

"And there's another nice thing about San Francisco. The people are much friendlier. If you're lost you can ask anyone for information. They're always glad to help you. Not here in New York! Everyone here is always in a hurry. They don't have time to be friendly. They walk faster and they drive faster. I think they even talk faster!"

"We like New York City," said Sam Diamond to Jane. "But we don't go there very often together.

"Let's all go!" said Jane. "I'll show you some nice places."

A week later, they all took the train to New York City. First they went to some stores. Susan needed a new raincoat for their trip. She tried on many coats. Sam liked all of them. But Susan thought they were too fancy, and too expensive. So she did not buy anything.

Then they visited the Museum of Modern Art. They looked at pictures made with newspapers, wood and metal.

"Is this art?" asked Sam. "I don't think I understand it."

"This is Picasso!" said Jane. "He's the most famous modern artist in the world!"

"Then I guess I don't like modern art," said Sam.

Next they walked around Greenwich Village. Susan liked the old style of the houses and the funny old kind of street lights. Sam did too, but he was more interested in all the restaurants. On every street there were wonderful smells. Finally, he said, "How about dinner? I'm hungry!"

Jane and Susan were hungry, too. They stopped at a Japanese restaurant and had a delicious meal.

The big day came for Susan and Sam. They were finally ready to leave on their trip to England. Ted, Maria and Jane drove with them to the airport.

"I'm sure we forgot something," Susan said to Sam. "Do you have the plane tickets?"

"Oh yes. They're in my pocket."

"What about our passports?" Susan asked.

"They're in my pocket, too," Sam said and he looked in his pocket to make sure. There were the tickets, but no passports! "I was sure I put them in this pocket," he said. "Maybe they're in my coat pocket."

He looked in his coat pocket, in his travel bag and in his suitcase. "They must be on the table at home!" he said.

"How could you!" said Susan.

"But they were with the travel information. I thought you had all that."

"Wait a minute. Maybe I do," said Susan. She looked in her bag. There were the passports.

"Let's go have a cup of coffee," said Ted. "You have lots of time and I think you need to relax."

But Sam and Susan were feeling nervous. They didn't want to miss their flight. So they all said goodbye, and Susan and Sam got on the plane.

Dear Ted, Maria and Jane,

London is wonderful! We walked all around the city yesterday and today. We’re both so glad we decided to come here. It’s a very large city, with almost 10 million people. But it doesn’t feel large the way New York does. First of all, there are no skyscrapers. Many of the buildings are small because they are very old. Also, a lot of people live in houses. There aren’t many large apartment buildings.

Londoners are proud of their city and they want it to look nice. You don’t see as much garbage as in New York. You also don’t see a lot of poor people. The English government takes good care of its people. There is usually food and housing for everyone. Even the poor neighborhoods are not run down and ugly. They’re not like the Bronx in New York, for example. The poor people in London usually have homes and food.

Another nice thing about London is the parks. You see them everywhere. These English parks are not like American parks. These are clean and full of flowers. No one here picks the flowers or throws paper on the grass.

I wonder about Americans — why can’t we take better care of our cities, our people and our parks?

We’ll write again soon and tell you more.

Love,
Mor

Dear Mom and Dad,

A terrible thing happened yesterday. But let me tell you first that everything is all right. Jane was mugged. But don’t worry. She’s okay now.

This is what happened.
Yesterday Jane had to stay late at work. When she finished everything at the office, it was dark. Jane knows New York City very well, so she was not afraid. She walked to the apartment of her friends Janet and Bill and rang their doorbell. They didn’t hear the bell, so she rang it again.

While she was standing there, a man and woman walked by. They saw her and stopped. Jane didn’t see them. Suddenly they grabbed her from behind. She tried to scream and fight. But they covered up her mouth and hit her. Just then, Jane’s friends came to the door. The robbers took Jane’s handbag and ran away.

Poor Jane! She was not badly hurt. She only has a black eye. But she is very upset. Today she stayed home from work. Maria is with her. She is trying to help her relax and forget what happened.

I’m glad to hear you like London. It’s one of my favorite cities — and it’s very safe! Write again soon.

Love,
Ted

Dear Ted, Maria and Jane,

We made a great discovery yesterday. We went into our first English pub. What is a pub? First of all, it's a place to go for some great cider. Cider is made from apples, like our apple juice. But English cider has much more flavor than American apple juice!

Many pubs also serve good cheap food. Some Americans think the meat pies and sausages are a bit heavy. But I think they are delicious. I guess Londoners think so, too. The pubs are often crowded at mealtimes.

There is still another reason why the English go to pubs. It seems to be a meeting place too. People meet their friends and talk until late at night. They talk to foreigners too. Some of my friends at home said the English were not friendly. But it's not true at all, not in the pubs anyway. Last night we didn't get home until almost midnight! We were in a pub all evening talking to people. A young doctor from Manchester was nice and interesting.

You'll have to come here sometime. I know you'd all like the pubs too. How about it, Jane? You might meet a nice young man too! Hope you're all well.

Much love
Dac

All around the world, people drink tea. But tea does not mean the same thing to everyone. In different countries people have very different ideas about drinking tea.

In China, for example, tea is always served when people get together. The Chinese drink it at any time of day, at home or in teahouses. They prefer their tea plain, with nothing else in it.

Tea is also important in Japan. The Japanese have a special way of serving tea called a tea ceremony. It is very old and full of meaning. Everything must be done a special way in the ceremony. There is even a special room for it in Japanese homes.

Another tea-drinking country is England. In England the late afternoon is "teatime." Almost everyone has a cup of tea then. The English usually make tea in a teapot and drink it with cream and sugar. They also eat cakes, cookies and little sandwiches at teatime.

In the United States people drink tea mostly for breakfast or after meals. Americans usually use tea bags to make their tea. Tea bags are faster and easier than making tea in teapots. In the summer, many Americans drink cold tea — "iced tea." They sometimes drink iced tea from cans, like soda.

Dear Mom and Dad,

So many things are happening here! But don’t worry, they are all very good things. Here’s the first big news: Maria and I found a nice little house in Hartwell. It’s only six miles from Rosebud. We will move there next week. Then we will be all ready for the baby. Only one month before the baby arrives!

We also both have good news about our jobs. Maria showed some of her paintings in a gallery here in New York. She was nervous about this because she is new to the city. No one knows her here. In Italy, she was popular, but people here are much harder to please. The opening of the show went very well. Everyone liked the paintings. There were even some newspaper reporters. They said they were going to write a story about Maria’s artwork. They talked with Maria and asked lots of questions.

My good news is about my book. I had a meeting with an editor at a big publishing company. She said they were interested in my ideas about Italy. Now I have to write down those ideas. Then I’ll show them to the editor. It’s all very exciting for me.

Much love

A New Artist in New York

by Sandra Shaw

A wonderful new show of paintings opened in New York last week. Maria Arroyo-Diamond, the artist, is new to New York. She is not new to art. She grew up in Mexico. She studied with several famous artists in Mexico City. Five years ago, she married Ted Diamond and they moved to Italy. While they were living in Italy, she was quite popular. She also won several important awards.

Ms. Arroyo-Diamond is a small, very quiet person. But her paintings are very large. They are full of color and excitement. She explained that the colors she uses are Mediterranean colors. In the Mediterranean area the sky and the sea are usually very bright blue. The houses are often pink, yellow or orange.

In her paintings, the excitement comes partly from these colors. It also comes from her style. She likes to paint large shapes that seem to move. Ms. Arroyo-Diamond’s paintings do not show us the real world. Instead they show us her feelings about the world.

We look forward to seeing more work from this young and very fine artist.

CRIME IN BIG CITIES

by Carmen Cipolla

Crime is a serious problem in big cities. And it is getting worse every year. This is what police departments around the country said in their reports last week. There were more robberies and murders this year than last year. The streets are more dangerous. The streets are more dangerous. You may not even be safe in your own home.

Why is the problem so serious now? This is not an easy question to answer. There may not be a single answer. Many problems together seem to make cities so dangerous.

One of the problems is money. To fight crime a city needs police officers, cars and guns. These cost a lot of money. But right now cities do not have much extra money. So there are not enough police officers, cars and guns for the cities.

Another problem is drugs. Crime studies show that many criminals use and sell drugs. After they start taking drugs, they want to have more. But drugs are very expensive. So these people may sell drugs to other people to make money. Or they may steal money to get more drugs.

The laws about guns are also part of the crime problem. It is very easy to buy a gun in the United States. Anyone can have a gun. That means robbers can carry guns. Many people are killed during robberies. Anyone can have a gun at home. So an angry husband may shoot his wife or children. A crazy person is more dangerous with a gun. In general, crimes are more serious because everyone has guns.

But there is an even more important cause of crime. Cities have rich and poor neighborhoods. In the poor neighborhoods, the schools are often very bad. Jobs are hard to find. Many young people don't have much hope for a better life. They only know one way to make a better living for themselves. That way is to sell drugs or steal. So, some of these young people become criminals.

It is not going to be easy to change these crime problems. We must first change many of the laws about drugs and guns. We much change the way cities spend their money. We must also begin to make changes in the neighborhoods. Until then, the crime problem will not go away. And we will live our lives in fear.

Tourists in New York may think it is one big city. But the neighborhoods really are very different. There are rich neighborhoods and poor neighborhoods. And there are some neighborhoods full of people from the same country. These neighborhoods don't really look like they are part of the same city. The people are different and so are the buildings.

For example, in the southern part of the city is New York's Chinatown. New Yorkers from all parts of the city like to go there. They enjoy shopping at the Chinese stores and eating at the Chinese restaurants. But most of the people who live in Chinatown are Chinese. The shop signs are all written in Chinese. Everyone in the shops speaks Chinese. This is one of the most crowded and colorful neighborhoods in the city. It is also growing fast. More Chinese people are arriving every day.

Not far from Chinatown is Little Italy. Many Italians moved there from Italy in the early 1900s. Some of them stayed in the neighborhood. There are still good Italian shops, restaurants and cafes in Little Italy. You can hear Italian spoken on the streets. Every year there is a big Italian festival.

Greenwich Village is another kind of neighborhood. There the buildings are small, old and comfortable. Twenty-five years ago the rent for apartments in Greenwich Village was cheap. Young people with little money often lived there. For many years this was also where writers, artists and students lived. Famous books were written in the neighborhood. Famous artists painted their first pictures there.

Greenwich Village became more expensive in the 1960s. So, some artists and writers moved down the street to a neighborhood called Soho. There were many old factories in this area. Now most of the old factory buildings are studios for artists. There are many new art galleries, restaurants and shops. Soon this neighborhood may also be too expensive for artists!

The most beautiful and expensive neighborhood in New York is the Upper East Side. That is where many of the richest people live. The apartment buildings are large and very fancy. The streets are always clean. The shops sell all kinds of special foods and clothing. People from all over the world come to shop on the Upper East Side. Or they just look in the shop windows and dream.

Michael Greenberg is a very popular New Yorker. He is not in the government, and he is not famous in sports or the arts. But people in the streets know about him, especially poor people.

For these poor people, he is not Michael or even Mr. Greenberg. For them his name is "Gloves" Greenberg. "Here comes Gloves," they say when they see him walking down the street. How did he get that name? He looks like any other businessman. He wears a suit and he carries a briefcase. But he's different. His briefcase doesn't just have papers and books. It also has several pairs of gloves.

On cold winter days, Mr. Greenberg does not act like other New Yorkers. He does not look at the sidewalk and hurry down the street. He looks around at people. He is looking for poor people with cold hands. That is why he carries gloves in his briefcase. He stops when he sees someone with no gloves. If they look poor he gives them a pair of gloves. "Merry Christmas!" he says. He shakes their hand. Then he moves on, looking for more people with cold hands.

Every day during the winter Mr. Greenberg gives away gloves. During the rest of the year, he buys gloves. People who know about him send him gloves. He has a mountain of gloves in his apartment. There are gloves of all colors and sizes: children's gloves, work gloves and evening gloves for ladies.

Mr. Greenberg began giving away gloves 21 years ago. Now, many of the poor people in New York know him. They know why he gives away gloves. But some people don't know him. They are sometimes surprised by him. They think he wants money for the gloves. They don't understand that he just wants to make them happy.

The Greenberg family was poor. But Michael's father always gave things away. He believed it made everyone happier. Michael Greenberg feels the same way. He wants to do something for the poor people in New York. He feels that winter is a hard time for them. Many of these poor people have no warm place to go and no warm clothing. A pair of gloves may be a small thing. But he feels it can make a big difference in the winter. No wonder he is popular among the street people of New York.

Susan and Sam Diamond were enjoying themselves very much in London. They were lucky with the weather. No rain for ten days! They couldn't believe it. England is famous for bad weather. Londoners couldn't believe it either. Everyone was smiling all the time. At lunch time the parks were full of people sitting in the sun.

With the good weather, Susan and Sam spent many hours outside. They visited Kew Gardens and Kensington Gardens several times. The flowers there seemed bigger and more beautiful than the flowers at home. Susan especially loved the roses. She wished she could take some home with her.

The Diamonds visited many of the historical places around the city. They went to the Tower of London. It is one of the oldest buildings in the city. King William built it in about 1080 to keep his family safe. Later it became a prison. Many famous kings and queens were prisoners in the Tower. Now it is a place for tourists to visit.

Susan and Sam also went to Westminster Abbey, the most famous old church in London. Many people are buried there. Susan and Sam looked at all the names. They found the names of kings, queens, poets and scientists. For example, Queen Elizabeth I is buried there. So are Charles Darwin and Robert Browning. Susan and Sam were learning a lot of history. There was so much more history in England than in America!

And of course, the Diamonds went to many museums. In the British Museum they found very interesting and very old art from Greece and Egypt. They were surprised to see all these things in England. In the National Gallery and the Tate Gallery they saw fine examples of English art. Susan decided her favorite painter was John Constable. She liked his pictures of English farms, hills and rivers.

But the museum they both preferred was the Victoria and Albert Museum. There they saw very interesting old clothing from different times and places. They also saw old musical instruments from Italy. Sam's favorite was a beautiful old violin made by Antonio Stradivari in 1690.

Susan and Sam were very happy at the end of every day in London. But they also were very, very tired. One evening, they went to the opera at Covent Garden. They both fell asleep in the middle of a song!

Most musicians agree that the best violins were first made in Italy. They were made in Cremona, Italy, about 200 years ago. These violins sound better than any others. They even sound better than violins made today. Violin makers and scientists try to make instruments like the Italian violins. But they aren’t the same. Musicians still prefer the old ones. Why are these old Italian violins so special? No one really knows. But many people think they have an answer.

Some people think it is the age of the violins. They say that today’s violins will also sound wonderful someday. But there is a problem here. Not all old violins sound wonderful. Only the old violins from Cremona are special. So age cannot be the answer. There must be something different about Cremona or those Italian violin makers.

Other people think the secret to those violins is the wood. The wood of the violin is very important. It must be from certain kinds of trees. It must not be too young or too old. Perhaps the violin makers of Cremona knew something special about wood for violins.

But the kind of wood may not be so important. It may be more important to cut the wood a special way. Wood for a violin must be cut very carefully. It has to be the right size and shape. The smallest difference will change the sound of the violin. Musicians sometimes think that this was the secret of the Italians. Maybe they understood more than we do about how to cut the wood.

Size and shape may not be the answer either. Scientists measured these old violins very carefully. They can make new ones that are exactly the same size and shape. But the new violins still do not sound as good as the old ones. Some scientists think the secret may be the varnish. Varnish is what covers the wood of the violin. It makes the wood look shiny. It also helps the sound of the instrument. No one knows what the Italian violin makers used in their varnish. So no one can make the same varnish today.

There may never be other violins like the violins of Cremona. Their secret may be lost forever. Young musicians today hope this is not true. They need fine violins. But there aren’t very many of the old violins left. Also, the old violins are very expensive. Recently, a famous old Italian violin was sold for about $300,000!

American and British people both speak English of course. But sometimes it does not seem like the same language. In fact, there are some important differences between British and American English.

First of all, they sound very different. Often, Americans don’t say each word separately. They say several words together. Americans may say “I dunno” instead of “I don’t know.” Or they may say “Whaddya say?” instead of “What did you say?” However, the British are more careful in their speech. They usually say all the words and keep them separate.

<th>American</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>I don’t know.</td>
<td>I dunno.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>What did you say?</td>
<td>Whaddya say?</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Also, some letters have different sounds. For example, the Americans say the “a” in half like the “a” in cat. But the British say the “a” in half like the “o” in soft.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>British “a”</th>
<th>American “a”</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>half = soft</td>
<td>half = cat</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Sound is not the only difference between British English and American English. Words sometimes have different meanings too. Some American words are never used in England. The same thing is true of some British words in America. For example, the vocabulary for cars and driving is very different. Americans use the word highway, but the British say motorway. Americans drive trucks, but in England they drive lorries. The back of a car is called a trunk in America. In England it is a boot. The American word for the front of the car is hood, but the British say bonnet.

<td>highway</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>lorry</td>
<td>truck</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>boot</td>
<td>trunk</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>bonnet</td>
<td>hood</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Many expressions are also different in the two countries. In England, if you are going to telephone friends, you “ring them up.” In America you “give them a call.” When you are saying goodbye in England you might say “Cheerio!” In America you might say, “See you later.”

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>British</th>

</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>I’ll ring you up.</td>
<td>I’ll give you a call.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cheerio.</td>
<td>See you later.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
There are also sometimes differences in grammar. For example, Americans usually use the helping verb do when they ask a question. They say "Do you have class today?" But the British often leave out the helping verb. They say "Have you class today?"

All these differences can be confusing if you are learning English. But most languages are like this. Languages change over time. When people live in separate places, the languages change in different ways. This is what happened to English. It also can happen to other languages, such as French. Many people in Canada speak French. But their French is very different from the French of France.

If you like unusual places, you should go sometime to the Hebrides Islands. Not many people live on these islands in the northwest of Scotland. The land is not good for farming. The winters are long, cold and wet. It is hard to make a living in the Hebrides. But for a visitor, these islands can be very special.

They're not for everyone, however. Even summer days are cool and often windy. The water is too cold for swimming. There are only a few trees, no forests and few green fields. Instead of fields there are just rocks and bushes. The hills, too, are just piles of rocks. Sometimes the scenery looks like pictures of the moon.

But there is beauty in this wild place. It's in the wide, unforgettable views. From the beach you can often see all the way to the rocky hills. From the hills you can see far out to other islands and the open ocean. The colors, too, are unforgettable. Blue is everywhere. It's in the sky and in the ocean. It is in the tiny flowers that grow on the hills. In the spring there is also green in the hills. In the summer and fall they are more purple. And often the air is soft and gray with clouds and rain.
In these islands you can forget about the rest of the world. You can forget about city problems of noise, dirt and crime. The nights are quiet. The restaurants close early and there isn’t much nightlife. There aren’t even many hotels. Most visitors stay in guesthouses or “Bed and Breakfasts” as they are called in Scotland. These are really people’s homes. They rent out rooms for the night and serve breakfast to their guests. These homes may be simple, but guests are usually comfortable and well fed. You can meet some friendly people this way. It’s also a way to learn more about life on the islands.

You do not feel much like a tourist in the Hebrides. There are only a few historic places, no museums and a few shops. The shops are small. The only interesting thing to buy is the “tweed” from the island of Harris. This is a kind of wool cloth that is famous around the world.

But people do not come to the Hebrides to go sightseeing or shopping. They come to walk in the clean, cool air. They come for the quiet beauty and for the views.

Health Tips for Travelers

Tom O'Neal

Travel is fun. Travel is exciting. But it's not fun or exciting if you get sick. You may think, "Not me! I won't get sick on my vacation!" But, for many people, that is what happens.

Of course you do not want to spend your vacation sick in bed. If you have heart trouble, you don't want to make it worse. So what can you do to stay in good health? There are three things you should remember when you travel: relax, sleep and eat well.

A vacation is supposed to be a time for relaxing. But very often it is not. Think about what you do when you are a tourist. There are so many places to visit: museums, shops, parks and churches. You may spend most days walking around these places. This can be very tiring. Your feet may hurt. You may have a terrible headache after a few hours. If this is the way you feel, you should take a rest. Do not ask your body to do too much. A tired body means a weak body. And a weak body gets sick easily. So sit down for a few hours in a nice spot. In good weather, look for a quiet park bench. Or you can stop at a café. You can learn a lot by watching people while you rest.

Sleep is also important. If you want to stay healthy you need to get enough sleep. You may have trouble sleeping at night when you travel. Your hotel room may be noisy or the bed may be uncomfortable. If this is true, don't be afraid to change rooms or hotels. Or, you may not get enough sleep for another reason.

You may want to stay out late at night. In many cities the night life can be very exciting. Then you should plan to sleep for an hour during the day. That extra hour can make a big difference.

Finally, if you want to stay healthy, you must eat well. That means eating the right kinds of foods. Your body needs fresh fruits and vegetables, and some meat, milk or cheese. When you are in a new country, you may want to try new foods. But you need to be careful about how much you eat. Lots of rich food is not good for you.

So, remember this: if you want to enjoy your vacation, take good care of yourself. Give your body some rest. Get enough sleep and eat good, healthy food.

Dear Mom and Dad.

Guess what! You are now grandparents! And I’m a very happy father. Yesterday Maria had a little girl. We named her Elena. That was the name of Maria’s mother. Everybody says Elena looks like me already. She does have blue eyes like me. But I think she looks more like Maria. They both have round faces and dark hair.

The doctors were worried about the baby. She arrived a little early, after only eight months. When she first came out she wasn’t breathing. She didn’t make any noise. I thought maybe she wasn’t alive. But after a moment she began to move. Then she began to cry very loudly. It was a good sound. Elena is small, only six pounds. But very healthy.

The doctors were also worried about Maria. For a while they were afraid for her life, too. She went into the hospital at 2:00 p.m. on Monday. The baby was born at 8:00 p.m. on Tuesday. That’s 30 hours. Poor Maria. She had a very difficult time for those 30 hours. In fact the doctors say she shouldn’t have another child. It might be dangerous for her. We were a little sad when we heard the doctor. We wanted to have two children and now maybe we can’t.

But we do have Elena. That is the important thing. I’m in love with her already. She’s such a pretty little girl. Not all babies are pretty, you know. Some of the other babies at the hospital are almost ugly. But our Elena has a perfect nose and perfect little ears. And she has the biggest, most beautiful blue eyes. All the nurses love her because she doesn’t cry very often. She also smiles a lot. She’s really a very happy baby.

For the next few months I’m planning to work less. My boss says I can work part-time, only 25 hours per week. Then I will have more time to be with Maria and Elena. I don’t know much about babies but I guess I’ll learn! I’m just afraid I’ll hurt this little daughter. She’s so very, very small!

Jane is at the hospital now with Maria. I’m at home and I couldn’t sleep because I was too excited. I wanted to call you but I didn’t know your telephone number. Maybe you could call us when you get this letter. I hope you are enjoying Scotland.

Much love,
Te

"Baby!"
"Yes. It's a girl. She came a little early. But Maria's fine and the baby's fine. We named her Elena. Didn't you get my letter? How come you're calling?"
"Because of your father. I have some bad news."
"What happened?!?!?"
"It's his heart. He had a small heart attack. Just a small one. The doctor says he has to stay in the hospital for a few weeks. But it's not too serious."

"No. I'm not at the hospital now. But you can call him at the hospital. He will be glad to hear from you."

"Well, we were in the Hebrides Islands for a few days. Maybe it was the cold weather there. Maybe he was drinking 'oo much tea and eating too many tea cakes. I don't know and the doctors don't know either. Anyway, we arrived in Edinburgh last night. After dinner he suddenly didn't feel well. Then he fell down in the middle of the street! It was terrible! But the people there were very helpful. Someone called the police. Someone called the hospital.
"You're sure Dad is okay?"
"Yes. Dr. Campbell is taking care of him. They say he's the best heart doctor in Scotland. He says Dad may feel sick for a while, but he'll be fine. He just has to rest now. Is Jane there?"
"No, she isn't home yet. I'll tell her when she gets home. Maybe she will want to go to Edinburgh. I can't leave Maria and the baby right now. Unless it is serious. Are you really sure Dad's okay?"
"Yes, he's going to be fine. And Maria... You're sure she's okay? Your father will be so happy when I tell him about the baby. He wanted so much to be a grandfather! Tell Maria I'll be glad to help her when we get home. It's too bad it happened so early. I wanted to be there with her. Can I speak with her now?"
"No, she's still in the hospital, too. She'll be home tomorrow."

Dear Ted and Maria,

It's hard to believe I'm here in Scotland. This all happened so quickly! I'm so glad I came. Dad was very happy to see me. He's still very sick, but Dr. Campbell says he's all right. They want to watch him for a while and do some tests. So he'll probably stay in the hospital for a few more weeks. Then he will have to be careful in the future. Less dessert and fewer meat pies! We're very lucky this happened in Scotland. Here they have a National Health Service. The doctors and the hospitals are all paid by the government. We don't have to pay them!

Dad looks different because he's still weak and he's thinner. But he sounds fine. The nurses all love him because he tells them funny stories. He talks with Dr. Campbell a lot about fishing, too. I found a beautiful poster of a Scottish lake for his room. It's a nice, large room with big windows and a view of the city of Edinburgh.

Poor Mom is also very glad I'm here. She was staying with Dad all day every day in the hospital. Now she can go back to our room and rest sometimes. We're staying in a nice little place near the hospital. It's a "Bed and Breakfast," not a hotel. It's much more comfortable and more like home.

Mom was right about Dr. Campbell. He's really an excellent doctor. All his patients like him and I can see why. He's always kind to them and he'll answer any questions. He's very friendly to me, too. And, if you ask me, he's VERY handsome!

Andrew — that's his first name — is showing me more of Scotland. Last night he took me to a Scottish dance. The dancing was fun, but not always easy. All the men there were wearing the Scottish national costume, the kilt. These kilts are unusual and colorful. Andrew also wants me to go sailing with him next weekend. He likes dancing and sports and activities like that.

How is Elena? Give her an extra hug and kiss for me. I hope Ted is cooking some nice dinners for you! Give him my love too. Mom and Dad both send their love and many hugs and kisses. Mom says she will write again soon. I miss you all!

Love
Jane

In Europe men don’t usually wear skirts. But the Scottish national costume for men is a kind of skirt. It is called a kilt. The Scottish like to be different. They are also proud of their country and its history, and they feel that the kilt is part of that history. That’s why the men still wear kilts at old-style dances and on national holidays. They believe they are wearing the same clothes that Scottish men always used to wear.

That’s what they believe. However, kilts are not really so old. Before 1730, Scottish men wore a long shirt and blanket around their shoulders. These clothes got in the way when the men started to work in factories. So, in 1730 a factory owner changed the blanket into a skirt: the kilt. That’s how the first kilt was made.

Then, in the late 1700s Scottish soldiers in the British Army began to use kilts. One reason for this was national feeling: the Scottish soldiers wanted to look different from the English soldiers. The British Army probably had a different reason: a Scottish soldier in a kilt was always easy to find! The Scottish soldiers fought very hard and became famous. The kilt was part of that fame, and in the early 1800s men all around Scotland began to wear kilts.

These kilts had colorful stripes going up and down and across. In the 1700s and early 1800s, the color of the stripes had no specific meaning. Men sometimes owned kilts in several different colors. But later the colors became important to the Scottish families. By about 1850, most families had special colors for their kilts. For example, men from the Campbell family had kilts with green, yellow and blue stripes. Scottish people often believe that the colors of the kilts are part of their family history. In fact, each family just chose the colors they liked best.

This is not the story you will hear today if you are in Scotland. Most Scottish people still believe that kilts are as old as Scotland and that the colors are as old as the Scottish families. Sometimes feelings are stronger than facts!

Sailing may seem like a difficult sport, but it really is not hard to learn. You do not need to be strong. But you do need to be quick and you need to understand a few basic rules about the wind.

First, you must ask yourself, "Where is the wind coming from? Is it coming from ahead or behind or from the side?" You must be thinking about this all the time on the boat. The wind direction tells you what to do with the sail.

Let's start with wind blowing from behind. This means the wind and the boat are going in the same direction. (Picture 1.) You should let the sail out all the way. It should be at a 90° angle to the boat. (Picture 2.) Then it will catch the wind best.

picture 2

Reading Faster
If the wind is blowing from the side, it is blowing across the boat. (Picture 3.) In this case, you must let the sail about half way out. (Picture 4.) It should be at about a 45° angle to the boat. It needs to be out far enough to catch the wind, but it shouldn’t be flapping. It shouldn’t look like a flag on a flagpole. If it is flapping, it is probably out too far, and the boat will slow down.

Sailing into the wind is not possible. (Picture 5.) If you try, the sails will flap and the boat will stop. You may want to go in that direction. It is possible, but you can’t go in a straight line. You must go back and forth. (Picture 6.) This is called tacking. When you are tacking, you should bring your sail in all the way. It should be parallel to the boat. (Picture 7.) This is the most difficult kind of sailing. It is also the most exciting. You have to watch the sail all the time. The wind may change suddenly. Then you must be ready to change the sail.
These are the basic rules about wind direction. They may be difficult to follow at first. Sometimes it is difficult to know where the wind is even coming from! But soon you will learn to feel it on your face. Before long, you will also get used to the boat and the sail. But remember — do not go out alone until you really know what you are doing. Sailboats are fun, but they are not just toys!

Dear Jane,

We were so glad to get your letter. Ted wasn’t sure what to do. He was so worried about your father. I told him he really didn’t need to worry about me and Elena. So he was all ready to go to Scotland. But your letter made us feel better. It really doesn’t sound too serious. Now maybe Ted will wait and see. If your father is still in the hospital in a few weeks, then he’ll go.

You can tell your parents that the house in Rosebud is fine. We go there often to make sure everything is okay. Dr. Hamilton says your father shouldn’t worry about his patients. They all ask about him. Dr. Hamilton says he will take good care of them, and I’m sure he will. Also, tell your mother that all the pets are very healthy. But the bird doesn’t sing anymore. I think it misses your mother!

Our life here is very different now. It’s not easy having a little baby in the house! Elena often wakes up at night, so I don’t sleep much. Then, all day long it seems there is always something to do. Sometimes I get very, very tired. Then I remember my own mother, with five children. How did she do it? In those days, women didn’t get much help from their husbands. My father was a wonderful person in many ways. But I don’t think he ever washed a dish in his life.

Ted is a very different kind of father. He’s working part-time for The New York Times now. He also is starting to write his book about Italy. He goes to his office only twice a week, and he only writes for a few hours a day. So that means he can do a lot around the house. He does the laundry often and goes shopping. He loves to play with the baby while I sleep or paint. You should see him with Elena. He’s like a little boy himself! I always thought he would be a good father. But I never knew he loved to play so much!

You must be having a good time there in Scotland. Dancing, sailing — what next? Tell me more about this Dr. Campbell. Are you serious about him? It’s too bad we can’t talk about all this. You must write me a long letter and tell me everything.

Give my love to your parents. Ted also sends his love, and Elena, too.

Much love,
Maria

Family Life in the United States

William Whipple

Family life in the United States is changing. Twenty-five years ago the housewife cleaned, cooked and cared for the children. She was the most important person in the home. The father earned the money for the family. He was usually out working all day. He came home tired in the evening. So he did not see the children very much, except on weekends. His work at home was usually outside in the yard. The cooking and the cleaning were for women only.

These days, however, many women work outside the home. They can't be at home with the children all day. They, too, come home tired in the evening. They do not want to spend the evening cooking dinner. They do not have time to clean the house or wash the clothes. So who is going to take care of the children now? Who is going to do the housework?

For every family the answer to this question may be different. But usually the wife does not have to do all the work herself. Today she can get help. One kind of help is the day-care center. Mothers can leave their children at these centers during the day. Then they are free to go to work. Most children enjoy these centers. There are toys and games and other children to play with.

Another kind of help may come from the company a woman works for. The company may allow her to work part-time. That way, she can earn some money. But she can also be with her children part of every day.

But the most important help a woman can get is from her husband. Today, many men share the housework with their wives. In these families, the men clean the kitchen and do the laundry. On some nights, the wife may cook dinner. On other nights it may be the husband. They may both go shopping and they may clean the house together. The husband may also spend more time at home with the children.

Some men may even stop working for a while or work only part-time. For these men there is a new word: the "househusband." In the United States, more and more men are becoming househusbands every year.

These changes in the home mean changes in the family. Fathers can be closer to their children because they are at home more. They can learn to understand their children better. The children can get to know their fathers better. Husbands and wives may also find changes in their marriage. They too, may have a better understanding of each other.

Dear Editor:

I read with interest the article on American families. In general I agree with it. But there are some important things it left out. It didn’t tell the reader much about the life of a househusband. It’s not an easy life. I know, because I’m now a househusband myself. A househusband has to change many of his ideas and his ways.

First of all, he has to change the way he thinks about time. Before I was a househusband, I worked for The New York Times. I was a reporter and time was always very important. We had to finish our articles quickly and give them to the editor. Everyone was always in a hurry. This is the way many other men work, too. Businessmen, lawyers, bankers, doctors: they all have to work quickly.

At home it’s very different. The househusband can’t be in a hurry all the time. If you rush around, you will make everyone very unhappy! The children will be unhappy because they don’t understand. For them time is not important. Your wife will be unhappy because the children are unhappy. You will be unhappy too because they are all unhappy. So you have to learn to slow down. That is the first and most important rule for a househusband.

But there is something else the househusband also has to learn. He must learn to show how he feels about things. At work, you usually don’t talk about feelings. If you do, people think you are strange. They may think something is wrong with you and tell you to see a doctor! So, many men are not used to telling anyone about their feelings. They don’t know how to talk about their anger, worries or love. But children need to know how you feel. They need to know if you are angry at them. They need to know how much you love them. Your wife also needs to know about your feelings. If you don’t say anything, your family may get the wrong idea. Then there may be serious problems.

People talk a lot about househusbands these days. Usually they talk about the housework, about cooking, cleaning and shopping. But for me, these are the easiest things to learn. It is much harder to change the way you think about time. It is hard to change the way you act with your family. It is harder, but it is very necessary if you want to be a happy househusband!

Chapter One: Pisa

Pisa was one of the first cities I visited in Italy. That is one reason why it is one of my favorite Italian cities. But I was in love with Pisa even before I saw it.

You see, I used to dream about it when I was a boy. I read about the famous building called the Leaning Tower of Pisa. But when I read the word Pisa, I was thinking of pizza. I thought this tower was a place to buy pizza. It must be the best pizza in the world, I thought. If it's so famous it must really be delicious.

Many years later I finally saw the Leaning Tower. I knew then that it was not pizza, and not pizza. But there was still something special about it for me. The tower got its name because it really does lean to one side. Some people want to try to fix it. They are afraid it may fall over and they do not like the way it looks.

I do not think it's a good idea to try to fix it. The tower probably will not fall down. It is 600 years old. Why should anything happen now? And, if you ask me, I like the way it looks. I like the way it leans over the city. To me it is a very human kind of leaning. Nothing is perfect, it seems to say.

And who cares? Why do people want things to be perfect? Why should the tower stand up straight? Imperfect things may be more interesting. Let's take the tower in Pisa. Why is it so famous? There are many other older, more beautiful towers in Italy. But Pisa's tower is one of the most famous. People come from all over the world to see it.

I am one of those people. After my first visit, I returned many times. And every time, I liked it just as much. Pisa still makes me think of pizza. But that is not why I like the city and its tower. They are special for me in the same way that Italy is special.

Many Americans tell me that Italy has a lot of problems: the trains are never on time, the telephones do not always work, the streets are not always clean. Things are not perfect at all. "Why don't the Italians fix all them?" they ask. But that is what I like about Italy. It is old and imperfect and very human.

Dear Ted and Maria,

Dad is out of the hospital now and he’s feeling much stronger. This morning we took a short walk to the park. Dad was so glad to be out in the open air. He started talking about fishing, but he’s not ready for that yet! Dr. Campbell said Dad will be ready to travel next week. I made plane reservations for the 10th of July.

Now we’re both beginning to think more about Rosebud. Scotland is very beautiful and the people here are friendly, but we’ll be glad to be home again. We miss you all so much. And, of course, we really want to see our new little granddaughter.

Our life in Rosebud will be a bit different after all this. There will be changes for both of us at work. Your father says he may only work part-time. The doctor thinks it will be better for his heart. Your father says he just wants to have more time for fishing and relaxing. He also wants to be a good grandfather. He was always busy when you and Jane were little, Ted. So he didn’t have much time to play with you. Now he wants to have time for Elena.

I may have even less time for relaxing. Our laboratory is going to be very busy soon. Yesterday I got a letter from the government with some good news. The government is going to give more money to our lab. Now we will start a big new study about acid rain.

Acid rain is part of the problem of air pollution. Right now it is killing plants and fish in lakes. This is happening in the United States and in Europe. Many fishermen — like your father! — are getting worried. There won’t be any fish left, if acid rain does not stop. In the future this acid rain may also hurt people. That is why it is important to study it. We want to find out more about acid rain. Then maybe the government can stop it.

People in Scotland are also worried about acid rain. There was a long article about it in the Edinburgh Sunday newspaper. The reporter said that the fish are dying in some parts of the country. The Scots are very upset because fishing is a very popular sport here.

I can hardly wait to see both of you — and Elena. She must be a very big baby now!

With all our love,
Mom

Acid Rain
by Sandra Atherton

The fish are dying in the Adirondack lakes in northern New York State. Fishermen are worried. This used to be a favorite spot for sport fishing. But every year there are fewer fish. Some lakes — 6% of them — now have no fish at all. Scientists are beginning to get worried too. What is killing the fish?

The problem is acid rain. Acid rain is a kind of air pollution. It is caused by factories that burn coal or oil or gas. These factories send smoke high into the air. The wind often carries the smoke far from the factories. Some of the unhealthy things in the smoke may come down with the rain hundreds of miles away. This is what is happening in the Adirondacks. There are many factories in the Midwestern states. They are sending a lot of smoke into the air. The wind blows the smoke towards the east. That means towards New York State and the Adirondack area.

The rain in the Adirondacks isn’t natural and clean any more. It’s full of acid chemicals. When it falls in lakes, it changes them too. The lakes become more acidic. Acid water is like vinegar or lemon juice. It hurts when it gets in your eyes. It also kills the plants and animals that usually live in lake water. That is why the fish are dying in the Adirondacks.

But dead fish may be just the beginning of the problem. Scientists are finding other effects of acid rain. In large areas of the eastern United States, trees are dying. Not just one tree here and there, but whole forests. At first scientists couldn’t understand why. There were no bugs or diseases in these trees. The weather was not dry. But now they think that the rain was the cause. Acid rain is making the earth more acidic in these areas. Some kinds of trees cannot live in earth that is very acidic.

Now scientists are also beginning to study the effects of acid rain on larger animals. For example, they believe that some deer in Poland are less healthy because of acid rain. If deer are hurt by the rain, what about people? This is the question many people are beginning to ask. No one knows the answer yet. But it is an important question for us all.

Diamonds Return From Europe

Yesterday afternoon Susan and Sam Diamond returned to Rosebud after almost two months in England and Scotland. Sam Diamond is a dentist and he is also the president of the Rosebud Fishing Club. While he was in Scotland, he had a heart attack and stayed in the hospital for three weeks. However, the heart attack was not serious. Dr. Diamond’s patients and friends will be glad to know that he is now in good health.

Susan Diamond also has some good news that may interest people in Rosebud. There is a lot of talk these days about the problem of acid rain. No one knows what acid rain is really doing to our world or to us. Next month Susan’s laboratory in New York will begin an important study of acid rain. The money for the study will come from the United States Government. Susan and the other scientists at the laboratory hope they will find out more about the causes and effects of acid rain. We are lucky to have people like Susan Diamond studying this very serious problem.

Susan and Sam Diamond were met at the airport yesterday by their son Ted. He and Maria, his wife, returned from Italy this spring. Last month they had their first child, a daughter named Elena. Ted is a reporter for The New York Times, and he is writing about the United Nations. He is also working on a book about living in Italy. Maria, an artist, recently had a show of some of her paintings in New York. An article in The New York Star reported on Maria’s paintings and said that she is a very talented artist.

And finally, we also have good news from the youngest member of the Diamond family. Many of us remember Jane Diamond as a person who likes excitement and change. In high school, she was always busy with sports, theater, music or other activities. She lived in California for several years and she moved to New York a few months ago. Now we hear she is going to get married. She met Dr. Andrew Campbell while she was in Scotland visiting her father. The wedding will be here in Rosebud in October. Jane and her husband plan to live in Edinburgh.

Congratulations to Jane, Ted and Maria, and welcome home to Susan and Sam!

Teacher's Supplement

Using Reading Power in Your Class

The materials in this book are designed to take approximately 35 hours of class time. This can be accomplished in different ways, depending on the structure of your class and the amount of homework assigned. Here are some suggestions for using this book in different class situations:

★ In an integrated skills class which meets for two to three hours per day, five days a week, plan to use this book for about twenty minutes every day. For example:

Monday — Two Faster Reading passages
         One page of Thinking Skills exercises
Tuesday — Two or three pages from a Comprehension Skills Unit
Wednesday — Reading for Pleasure and Book Conferences
Thursday — Two or three pages of Comprehension Skills exercises
Friday — Two Faster Reading Passages
         One page of Thinking Skills exercises

★ In an integrated skills class which meets for three hours per week, plan to use this book for about one third of the class time. For example, in one week of class time students can complete:

• Four Faster Reading passages
• One page of Thinking Skills exercises
• Six pages of Comprehension Skills exercises

Homework assignments can include:

• Reading for Pleasure
• Faster Reading passages
• Thinking Skills exercises
• Selected Comprehension Skills exercises

★ In a reading class which meets two hours per week, use this book and the pleasure reading books in every class. Each hour the class can do:

• Two or three pages of Comprehension Skills exercises
• Two Faster Reading passages
• One page of Thinking Skills exercises
• Reading for Pleasure and Book Conferences

★ In a reading lab, where students work independently, the lab supervisor should explain how to use this book. As in a classroom, the students should work regularly in all four parts of the book. If students go to the reading lab three hours per week, each hour they can do:

• Two or three pages of Comprehension Skills exercises
• Two Faster Reading passages
• One page of Thinking Skills exercises
• Reading for Pleasure and Book Conferences
General Guidelines
This supplement will give step-by-step guidance in using Reading Power. But first, here are some general principles for teaching reading with this book:

- Reading should become enjoyable for the students. The reading class must engage them fully and never turn into "busy work."
- Students should be encouraged to work in pairs as often as possible, especially on the skills exercises in Part II. Talking about the exercises will facilitate language acquisition.
- Teachers should focus on the thinking process. The "right answer" is not important here. What matters is how the student arrives at an answer.
- The use of a dictionary should be discouraged. Instead, students should be encouraged to guess the meanings of words.
- Awareness of the purpose of their work will increase the students' efficiency and involvement in learning.
- Students should check their answers in the Answer Key at the back of the book and should try to analyze their own mistakes.
- Some exercises can be assigned for homework as reinforcement after similar exercises have been done in class.

Page 1  INTRODUCTION
In order to encourage students to begin thinking about reading, the first reading class should start with a questionnaire like the one below.

Reading Questionnaire

True or False?

1. It is important to read every word if you want to understand.
2. You will learn more if you look up every new word in the dictionary.
3. Reading stories and novels is not important.
4. If you read fast, you will not understand.
5. You should be able to say every word you read.
6. Reading class is the same as vocabulary class.
7. Books for ESL students must be simple. ESL students cannot read books for English speakers.
8. You should write the words in your own language above the English words in a book.

(All of these statements, of course, are false.)

A discussion of the results of this questionnaire will increase the students' awareness of the reading process, the value different cultures place upon reading, and the role of reading in their own culture. Finally, it will help clarify for the students their objectives in the reading class. Page 1, How to Become a Better Reader is intended for the students' information.

This section gives the rationale for learning to read faster and establishes the procedures for reading and timing the passages, and for answering the questions. Students will use these same procedures in Part III. It is essential that the teacher read and understand these procedures before working on them with the class.

The passages tell the story of Susan and Sam Diamond and their family. The forty passages must be read in order. None should be skipped. As the students read the passages, they build background knowledge, which enables them to read with increasing speed and fluency.
The students will have much more success with the Faster Reading passages if, from the very beginning, they

- learn to time themselves,
- answer the comprehension questions twice.

(Allowing the students to answer the questions twice will encourage them to take risks and to guess answers. Knowing they can look back the second time, they are more willing to take those risks.)

Passages A, B, and C introduce the timing procedures. If possible, use a wall clock with a second hand for timing. A typical routine for timing follows:

1. When the class is ready to begin Passage A, the students should write the starting time on the line at the top of the passage. They should then start reading and read as quickly as possible with understanding.
2. As soon as they have finished reading, they should write the finishing time on the line at the end of the passage.
3. Then tell the students to turn the page and circle the best answer to the questions, without referring back to the passage.
4. After they have answered the questions once, the students should go back and answer them a second time. This time, they may look at the passage. They should write their answers in the boxes to the right of the questions.
5. After they are finished, they can check the answers in the boxes. The Answer Key is on page 259. They should write down the number correct.
6. Show the students how to determine their reading rate, using the directions on page 9.

Page 10

HOW TO THINK IN ENGLISH

This is the introduction to Part IV. In these exercises the students will learn to recognize synonyms, comparatives, definitions, analogies, opposites, and classifications. They will practice using syntactic clues, guessing word meanings, and drawing conclusions.

The Thinking Skills exercises require little outside knowledge. The students should be able to guess the right answer from the context of the exercise.

The students should learn to do the Thinking Skills exercises without using a dictionary. As the class goes through the practice example on page 1, ask the students to explain their answers. They should be able to tell which words in each example helped them to guess the answer.

Page 13

PART I—READING FOR PLEASURE

Rationale

Reading Power is based on the belief that the best reading practice materials are the ones which the student selects. If your class uses a standard reader — a collection of stories or articles — it should be used in addition to student-selected materials.

The reason for this is simple: When students select a book which interests them, they usually already have some knowledge about the subject, so their understanding will be greater. They will also find the reading more enjoyable.

Books are preferable to short articles or stories because reading a book is more likely to improve reading fluency. It allows the reader to adjust to the writer’s style and to build a context for the vocabulary and concept.
Where to Find Books

Teachers often ask where the students can find books which are interesting to them and easy to read. This may be a problem at the beginning level. The lists in this supplement (page 283) and in Part I (page 19) offer some suggestions. These books are not skills books, with questions at the end of each chapter. They are meant to be read solely for pleasure. (Additional suggestions can be found in an excellent article in Reading in a Foreign Language, volume 2, number 2, Autumn, 1984: "Extensive Reading by Means of Graded Readers" by Julian Bamford.)

If there is a library or book store near the school, you can also take your students there during a reading class, to encourage them to develop the habit of browsing for books.

Setting Up a Class Library

Setting up a classroom library is not difficult. If you begin with a dozen or so books, in a few semesters you will have a decent collection. Friends often are willing to donate used paperback books. Students may buy books and then give them to the class library after they have finished reading them. The school might be willing to purchase some books for you, also.

The reading classroom should appear full of tempting materials, with books displayed prominently. Since most books for beginning readers are fairly short and thin, it is a good idea to display them with their covers showing.

Book Conferences

The teacher should meet regularly with individual students for conferences on the students' pleasure reading books.

There are many advantages to such informal oral reports over the traditional written reports. First of all, written reports often turn into drudgery for the students, which can take all the pleasure out of reading. Book conferences, on the other hand, are usually both rewarding and enjoyable for both teacher and student. Also, by giving the "pleasure reading" component of the course more status, they encourage students to take their reading more seriously.

A further advantage of oral conferences is that they provide an opportunity for more interaction between teacher and student with the book as a focus. More specifically, book conferences provide the following benefits:

1. Teacher and student can get to know each other better.
2. The teacher can find out if the student enjoyed and understood the book.
3. The student has an opportunity to express perceptions of the book and how the book relates to their own experience. The teacher's interest and questions can help the student develop these ideas further.
4. The teacher's questions can lead the student toward a more critical view of the book and eventually toward a more critical kind of reading.
5. These conferences help the students develop the habit of talking about reading, a habit which will enhance their comprehension and motivation.
Book conferences can be scheduled by appointment whenever the student has finished a book. The day before the conference, the student should give the book to the teacher. Since the books are usually short and easy to read, the teacher should be able to skim them in time for the conference. And often, students read many of the same books, so the teacher gets to know them.

If a student does not finish a book within a few weeks, however, the teacher should discuss the book in progress and check for any possible problems with the level or subject matter of the book the student has selected. If the book does seem inappropriate or is simply uninteresting, the student should be free to move on to another.

Rate Improvement Practice in Student-Selected Books

Included in Part I are instructions for finding reading rate in the students’ self-selected “Pleasure reading” book. This use of the students’ books adds to their motivation for improving their reading rate. The Progress Chart (on page 276) is intended as an additional incentive to work on reading faster.

The directions for calculating their rate in words per minute also provide meaningful practice for the students in following directions.

PART II—READING COMPREHENSION SKILLS

General Guidelines

1. The purpose and utility of the exercises in each unit should always be discussed with the students before doing the unit.
2. The whole class should work together on the introduction and examples at the beginning of each unit.
3. Students should enjoy these exercises. The teacher can introduce competitions or other game-like activities to increase the involvement and fun for the students.
4. Whenever possible, students should work in pairs in these units. The exercises lose much of their effectiveness when done individually.
5. The units and the exercises within each unit should be done in order and at a steady pace. If students have already covered similar exercises in class, some exercises can be assigned for homework. However, students should not try new exercises on their own.
6. In some of the exercises, where students write their own answers, their wording may vary from the wording in the Answer Key, but the meaning should be the same.

Unit 1: Previewing and Predicting

Previewing

Previewing is a high-speed reading activity. Therefore, the previewing exercises should be timed, or in some way limited in time to encourage the students to work rapidly.

Students should be encouraged to preview everything they read for the following reasons:

1. It allows the reader to place the text in context or mental framework.
2. It helps the reader to judge the level of difficulty of a text and the extent of their background knowledge of the subject.
3. It demonstrates to ESL/EFL students in particular that they can extract information from a text without reading every word.
4. It sets the groundwork for improvement in reading rate and eventually for learning how to skim.
Note that on the first page of this unit (page 21), the students should not turn the page until they have read the passage and had some time to discuss it. They may or may not be able to guess what the passage is about (learning to ride a bicycle), but it is important for them to try. This exercise shows:

- How the establishment of context is crucial to comprehension;
- How a simple picture can help establish that context.

The next exercise, "A Busy Student" on page 23, is intended to show students how to establish context by a very brief look at the text. In this exercise, students should realize that they can learn something about a text without reading every word.

Predicting

These exercises (beginning on page 29) are designed to make the students more aware of the thinking processes involved in drawing inferences. The exercises show students how to locate the evidence for their inferences. The emphasis here is on guessing as a legitimate part of reading.

The predicting exercises follow the previewing exercises because the two activities together will develop the students' ability to tap background knowledge before reading. In the predicting exercises, as in previewing, it is essential that the students work in pairs.

Unit 2: Scanning

Scanning is a high-speed reading skill used when a reader wants to find specific information. The reader already has a question in mind and is simply looking for the answer.

To ensure that students work at high speed in these exercises, they should be timed. Any of the following methods for timing may be used:

1. Students can time each other, working in pairs.
2. The teacher can divide the class into two teams and make the exercises competitive. The winning team will have the highest number of right answers in the shortest amount of time.
3. The teacher may turn the exercises into a race for the whole class. The students get a point for each time they find the right answer first. The student with the highest total points wins.

Unit 3: Guessing Word Meanings

ESL/EFL students are often unwilling to guess words they do not recognize. These exercises are designed to show them how and when to guess. Be sure that students understand this before doing the exercises.

Notice that the directions for exercises 1–10 in this unit all require the students to work in pairs. This is very important because working with another student makes the exercises less intimidating and increases their value as language acquisition activities.

In the cloze exercises in this unit (exercises 3–10), students should read the entire passage first. Then they can go back and try to write in the missing words. Exercises 3–10 form a complete story. The students can use their knowledge of previous episodes to help them guess the missing words later in the unit.

Exercises 11 and 12 include words the students may not recognize but should be able to guess from context.
Unit 4: Topics

Note: The exercises in Units 4, 5, 6 and 7 should be worked on sequentially. They are designed to lead the students through the following sequence of skills:

1. Finding topics of lists.
2. Stating topics of lists.
3. Stating topics of longer passages (dialogues).
5. Stating topics of paragraphs.
6. Selecting the best main idea.
7. Stating the main idea.

Unit 4 trains students to distinguish between generalization and details and to develop semantic networks in English. More specifically, in these exercises students will learn to:

1. Identify the general topic by sampling from the list and noticing relationships among the items.
2. Predict and look for a word which matches their inner notions of the category for the words on the list.
3. Ignore words they do not recognize and which are not necessary for establishing the category.
4. Learn new words and reinforce vocabulary and classifications they may already know.
5. Read with a question in mind.

These exercises should be done in pairs. Students usually catch on quickly to the game of finding the topic. The class should move through this unit rapidly.

Unit 5: Topics of Conversations

This unit gives students practice in the following skills:

1. Drawing inferences from clues.
2. Reading with a question in mind.
3. Finding the topic of a longer passage.

These dialogues are not intended to be read aloud by students to the class. Oral reading requires a different set of skills. It may even interfere with comprehension because students tend to concentrate instead on pronunciation.

The class should first do the practice exercise (page 76) together, so the teacher can emphasize using clues to guess the topic and location of each conversation. Then the students should work in pairs on the rest of the unit.

Unit 6: Topics of Paragraphs

Students continue to practice zeroing in on a topic in this unit, but the task becomes more challenging here. The teacher should go through the examples on page 80 with the whole class.

In the first set of exercises students are given three possible topics and asked to select the one which fits the paragraph best and is neither too specific nor too general. A visual representation may help clarify for the students the meaning of specific and general, terms they will need to understand.
The teacher may draw this diagram on the board:

SPECIFIC
```

Note that each page of exercises includes a question about the topic for the entire page. Be sure students do not overlook this question.

Page 91  Unit 7: Main Ideas of Paragraphs

Students are by now well-trained in finding the topic by asking the question, "What is the topic?" Unit 7 teaches them how to find the main idea of a passage by asking, "What is the author saying about that topic?" The teacher should go through the examples on page 91 with the whole class.

The main idea of any passage should be stated in a complete sentence, to ensure that it is really an idea and not just a topic. All the exercises in this unit require students to form main idea sentences. At first, in Exercises 1 and 2, the students simply complete the best main idea sentence with the topic. Exercises 3 and 4 give students a choice of main idea sentences. The final exercises, 5-8, require students to write out the main idea sentence themselves.

Page 101  Unit 8: Patterns of Organization

This unit focuses the students' attention on the organization of the text. They learn to:

1. Recognize four of the most common patterns of organization in English discourse.
2. Identify signal words for each pattern.
3. Use the signal words and the patterns they indicate as tools for better comprehension.

These exercises should help students develop the habit of always asking "What is the pattern?" whenever they read.

The exercise on the first page of the unit is meant to be a whole class activity. After the students try to draw the pictures from memory, the class should discuss the results, and the teacher should then immediately introduce them to the four types of patterns they will learn about in Unit 8.
For each kind of pattern mentioned on page 102, the teacher should ask students to think of other examples. Here are some possibilities:

Listing:
- Courses you can take at college
- Kinds of holidays
- Sports

Time order:
- Daily schedule of a student
- Getting ready for a party
- Steps in applying for a visa

Cause-effect:
- Causes of a headache
- Effects of a headache
- Causes of a war
- Effects of a war

Comparison:
- Two governments
- Two TV shows
- Two cars
- Two people in the class

Each of the four patterns is introduced by a set of examples. Be sure to do the introduction and examples for each pattern with the whole class. The students need to understand the importance of the signal words used with each pattern.

Using All Four Patterns, Exercises 1 and 2, allow the students to practice identifying the patterns they have learned in this unit.

Unit 9: Using Reference Words

ESL/EFL students often run into comprehension problems because they cannot identify the referent for a pronoun. They also often fail to notice the way hyponyms can connect ideas. These exercises will train the students to become more aware of the way writers commonly use these words in English and how important they are for understanding a text.

Pronouns — The whole class should work together on the examples on page 129. Exercises 1–4 give students practice in identifying simpler pronouns. The next exercises, 5 and 6, include some pronouns which serve to summarize earlier facts or ideas.

Related Words — The whole class should work together on the examples on page 135. The exercises on hyponyms are designed to alert students to their function in connecting ideas and also to the way the related words usually are used progressively: a specific noun is used first, then a less specific one, and then a more general term.

Unit 10: Skimming

In this unit students will use many of the reading skills they have just learned. Successful skimming requires making guesses from partial evidence, and quickly drawing conclusions about some of the general ideas in the text. This is a complex task — for both native speakers and second language learners — and teachers should not be surprised if their ESL/EFL students find it difficult.
Speed is the key to skimming. It should be stressed from the beginning, even though students are likely to resist. All the exercises in this unit should be timed or limited in time in some way to force the students to work quickly.

Skimming for Point of View. The whole class should work together on the examples on page 139.

Skimming for the Pattern of Organization. The whole class should work together on the examples on page 142.

In Exercises 5–9, they will practice using this skill, and their knowledge about the organization of English paragraphs, in skimming longer passages. The questions following the passages are intended only to check their grasp of the general nature and ideas of the text. Be sure that students really do skim the passages. They need to read only the first line and a few words of each paragraph in order to answer the questions.

PART III—PASSAGES FOR READING FASTER

Passages 1 to 20 are all 200 words long. Most of these are simple narratives, with a few dialogues and expository passages included. Passages 21 to 40 are 400 words long, and include more expository passages.

The class should start to use these passages as soon as they have completed the introductory section at the beginning of the book. They should do two passages each time they practice faster reading, whether at home or in class. It is a good idea to use these passages at least once a week in class. You can monitor the students, timing procedures and try to encourage them to speed up.

The teacher should make sure that the students are timing themselves accurately, using the rate table on page 274 for converting their reading time into reading rate (words per minute), and recording their rate on the Progress Chart on page 275. The teacher’s interest in the Progress Chart will encourage the students to work on improving their reading speed.

PART IV—THINKING SKILLS

These exercises are designed to provide practice in grasping logical thought patterns in English and guessing the meanings of words from the context. The exercises present problems in logical thinking which the students can solve by using synonyms, comparatives, opposites, analogies, negations, syntax, part/whole relationships, and definitions, and by drawing conclusions based on evidence.

Thinking Skills begins with very simple problems, but each exercise increases in complexity. The students should do them in order.

Students should work independently, at their own pace, in this part. They should check their answers in the Answer Key (page 273), and then record their scores in the Progress Chart (page 278). The students should try to understand their mistakes. Encourage the students to ask the teacher’s assistance in figuring out the logic of the answers.
